Builder Won't Say If He Made Payoffs To Union President

Contractor Takes Fifth Amendment At Rackets Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)— A Chicago contractor, Stephen A. Healy, ducked behind the Fifth Amendment today and balked at saying whether he made payoffs of $228,923 to President William E. Maloney of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Members of the union run cranes, bulldozers and other equipment on construction projects.

Healy, 69, rejected appeals to patriotism and conscience and told the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee upwards of 30 times that answers to questions about finances and union officials might be incriminating.

The committee has been focusing so far on what it says is corruption, violence, misuse of funds and dictatorial methods in local unions of the Operating Engineers.

Contracts Explained

It explored today another chapter in the affairs of Local 825 in Newark, N.J., with testimony that Peter W. Weber, its business manager, has substantial financial interests in several business firms which have contracts with the Operating Engineers. A copy of one contract was introduced in evidence, with a firm in which Weber holds an interest, signed by Weber on behalf of the union.

The committee also added up to a minimum total of $238,800 the payments and benefits it figures ex-convict Joey Fay and his wife were awarded by the local in the years since Fay went to Sing Sing for extorting funds from contractors. Fay, a power in the local for 30 years, is free on parole and gave testimony today.

Maloney-Fay Link Tightened

The total includes the value the committee put on a pension given to Fay, a salary and bonuses and a car for his wife, and legal fees the union paid for Fay.

The committee also strengthened the net of evidence tying together Maloney and Fay.

And it brought out testimony from staff investigators that Maloney, Healy and Orral B. Souci, president of a Terre Haute, Ind., local, were partners in Indiana oil well ventures.

But from Healy himself, the committee got not a word on what his relationship with Maloney has been.

TELLS OF PENSION—Peter Weber, business manager of Newark Local 825 of the Operating Engineers, tells senators Joey Fay's pension was cleared with the international president of the union. McElroy Will Speed Space Agency Setup

Defense Secretary Certain Red Tape, Delays Can Be Cut

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — Secretary of Defense McElroy said today the Pentagon's new outer space and weapons unit — the Advanced Research Projects Agency—will be officially set up in a day or two.

"We thought it best to have the agency actually set up before appropriations are voted for it," McElroy said in an interview at the Capitol.

He had just completed a second day of closed-door testimony before the Senate Appropriations Committee. It is considering a $1,410,000,000 emergency money bill aimed at speeding up the missiles-satellites and other urgent defense projects.

Antimissile Missile

ARPA, the new agency, will first concentrate on development of an antiballistic-missile missile and outer space projects, McElroy has told Congress.

McElroy also said he is confident that ARPA can cut through the delays and red tape that have slowed other new military projects or systems in the past.

It will start with 10 million dollars of financing, but also has authority to pick up some 38 millions from the Army and 29 millions from the Air Force, prepiously voted by Congress last year for the antimissile missile and outer space projects.

Director To Be Named

McElroy said ARPA would be officially set up before its director, expected to be a top military scientist, is appointed.

He also has asked authority to employ 25 scientists and technicians at special high-pay rates for ARPA. The House approved this, and the Senate is expected to do the same.

McElroy was reported in authoritative circles today to be scheduled for greatly increased power, under the administration's tentative recommendations for reorganization of the Defense Department.

Teen-Agers In Custody After Wave Of Killings

Swaggering Gunman Held In 10 Slayings

Surrenders After Bullet-Punctured Chase In Wyoming

DOUGLAS, Wyo., Jan. 29 (AP) Charles Starkweather, 19, runty Nebraska gunman sought in 10 slayings, was captured today in the badlands near this Wyoming cowtown.

He suffered head cuts during an exchange of shots with a deputy sheriff. With Starkweather was Caril Fugate, the 14-year-old girl who fled with him from Lincoln, Neb., where police said he killed nine people. Included among the victims were Caril's parents.

A tenth victim was found not far from where Starkweather was captured. Sheriff's men said he admitted the killing. The dead man was Merle Collison, 37-year-old Great Falls, Mont., shoe salesman.

The two teen-agers were run to earth in rugged country where old Western gunmen often holed up.

The girl was almost hysterical and ran fleeing to Dep. Sheriff Bill Romer crying out her fear Starkweather would kill her. She was in a state of shock shortly afterward.

Romer said she screamed to him: "He's going to kill me. He's crazy. He just killed a man!"

Tried To Dye Hair

Romer said the gunman, who likes to swagger in cowboy boots and black motorcycle jacket, had made a crude attempt to disguise his flaming red hair with shoe polish.

The bloody trail began less than 48 hours ago in Nebraska when the slaying of Caril's parents and infant half-sister was discovered. As police pressed the investigation, other killings were disclosed until the total reached nine. The hunt was started for Starkweather but he and the girl escaped the frantic search.

As National Guardsmen culled the byways of Lincoln, the stolen car driven by Starkweather was speeding west across the state line and into Wyoming. Behind them police ran down false leads in a desperate effort to nab Starkweather before any further violence occurred.

Douglas Sheriff Earl Heflin derided the tough talk of Starkweather, who snarled after his capture: "They wouldn't have caught me if I hadn't stopped. If I'd had a gun I'd have shot them."

Cut By Flying Glass

Heflin said that when Starkweather stopped his car and was caught, "He thought he was bleeding to death. That's the kind of yellow s.o.b. he is." Flying glass from car windows smashed by bullets in the short fight cut his scalp.

Heflin said a first-degree murder charge would be filed tomorrow morning against Starkweather in the killing of Collison.

Baghdad Bloc Promised New American Aid

ANKARA, Turkey, Jan. 29 (AP)— U.S. Secretary of State Dulles today pledged an additional 10 million dollars, contingent upon congressional approval, to improve communications in the strategic Middle East area covered by the Baghdad Pact nations.

He coupled the pledge with a warning that some austerity might be necessary on the part of the free world to meet the Soviet Union's mounting economic offensive in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Shortly after Dulles spoke here, the Soviet Union and Egypt signed an agreement in Moscow for long-term loans which an Egyptian spokesman said would meet all his country's needs for industrial development.

Moscow has also extended economic aid to Egypt's close ally, Syria. Egypt is bitterly opposed to the Baghdad Pact, which Moscow has also denounced.

The United States had previously pledged eight million dollars to build telecommunication links in this Middle East area, where a telephone call from Baghdad to Tehran must now be routed by way of London.

The U.S. announcement came as the five member nations of the Baghdad Pact and the American observer team headed by Dulles ended the major part of their work here. A final communique will be issued tomorrow.

Bulganin Hails Exchange Pact

MOSCOW, Jan. 29 (AP)— Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin said tonight the Soviet-American cultural exchange agreement signed this week "will undoubtedly help the Soviet and American peoples to understand each other better."

Bulganin spoke in an interview with a reporter of the government newspaper Izvestia, broadcast over the Moscow radio.

"One must hope that the agreement will represent an important step towards establishment of friendly relations between the peoples of the two countries," he said. ". . . I would like to stress that we attribute great importance to the concerted actions of the two countries for settling urgent international problems."

The agreement, which provides for increased exchange of persons, delegations, motion pictures and radio - television programs, was signed in Washington Monday by Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and William S. B. Lacey of the U.S. State Department.

House Leaders Draft President Disability Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A legislative formula for a vice president to serve, in case of need, as acting president was reported today to have been worked out in conferences of House leaders.

A draft of a proposed presidential disability statute was laid before a special House Judiciary subcommittee, which met in strict secrecy. It was understood to have discussed the draft with Atty. Gen. Rogers and asked him to examine it and report back with the views of President Eisenhower's administration.

Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the Judiciary Committee said "There is no agreement whatsoever."

However, the preparation of the draft bill followed meetings of subcommittee members with House leaders of both parties

The bill would create a Commission on Presidential Inability, made up mostly of key House and Senate members.

It would provide that, when a president declared himself incapacitated, or when the commission by a vote of at least six of its seven voting members so found, the vice president would take over the powers and duties of the presidency as acting president. By similar procedure, the commission could declare the president recovered, and he would resume active exercise of his office.

The question of temporary succession to the presidency has often been discussed, especially during the long periods of physical disability suffered by presidents Garfield and Wilson. But the vague language of the Constitution on the subject has never been implemented.

The subject was again discussed after President Eisenhower's first-term heart attack and his subsequent illnesses. Eisenhower himself urged Congress to clear up the constitutional doubts.

The bill now proposed, however, differs in major respects from the proposal Eisenhower made last year. He suggested amending the Constitution, a process that normally requires years, to provide that the vice president might take over temporarily if the president or the Cabinet declared the chief executive incapacitated.

Prober Reports FCC Documents Missing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) said tonight he has been reliably informed that certain unspecified documents are missing from the files of the Federal Communications Commission.

Williams is a member of a House investigating committee which decided today to start open hearings Monday on the conduct of FCC members.

The Mississippi Democrat said both he and Rep. Flynt (D-Ga) another committee member, have been told that documents were missing.

Asked if they might be pertinent to the House inquiry, he said he could not say.

The committee, headed by Rep. Moulder (D-Mo), called in reporters at the end of a two-hour session to inform them of the decision. The hearings will be held for three days.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the parent House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, said the committee decided that its staff director "immediately shall supply individual commissioners with a written specification of charges of any alleged misconduct upon which he may be interrogated during the hearing and such information shall be supplied at least three days in advance of the hearing."

Harris said also the committee decided that the chairman will make available immediately to each of the commissioners a copy of a staff memorandum provided by staff counsel.

This memorandum, which came to light last week but has not been officially released, said some FCC members illegally had accepted industry favors. John C. Doerfer, FCC chairman, called it inaccurate and misleading.

Training Range For Missilemen On Pacific Coast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Defense Department today announced establishment of a ballistic missile training range on the Pacific Coast that will eventually extend several thousand miles over the ocean.

The Navy was assigned to manage the new, major effort for all three military services. The range will use facilities, soon to be enlarged, at the Air Force Missile Training Center at Cooke Air Force Base, Lompoc, Calif., and the Navy's own test center at Point Mugu, northwest of Los Angeles.

The Pentagon said the new three-service training range in the Pacific will supplement the work now carried on from Cape Canaveral, Fla., where the Air Force is in command.

The primary mission of the Florida range will continue to be research and development while the combined operation from the Pacific Coast will emphasize training in the launching of intermediate-range and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Air Force has already started organization of its missile training center at Cooke, a former Army base. The Pentagon said that the Air Force will continue its own training activities, but that when the time comes to launch long-range missiles, the greatly expanded Navy operation will provide communications, tracking and instrumentation support for whatever missile is fired from either Cooke or Point Mugu.

The Navy said that to carry out its job, it will take over about 19,000 acres at Camp Cooke that have not been used by the Air Force.

The Pentagon described the Pacific range as extending 500 miles along the Pacific Coast and about 250 miles seaward.

Plane Carrying Five Missing

CHARLESTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A chartered plane with five persons aboard vanished in snow mists enshrouding Southern West Virginia mountains and still was missing today, 24 hours later.

An unrelenting search by Civil Air Patrol planes and ground crews was pressed in the Charleston area throughout the day without tangible results.

The plane had been chartered in Clearwater, Fla., by Beverly L. Michie, 48, to bring his ailing 72-year-old mother, Mrs. Bertha M. Michie, to Charleston for medical attention. An ambulance waited in vain at Kanawha Airport late yesterday to transfer Mrs. Michie to a hospital.

The crew members were identified in Clearwater as co - pilots Thomas Sternad and Robert Phillips of the Clearwater area, and Mrs. Luis W. Puckett of Clearwater, doing substitute duty as a nurse.

Mrs. Puckett was described as being regularly employed as secretary to George Moon, president of Southeastern Electronics Corp. and owner of the flying service which leased the plane.

The ship was described as white with blue markings. With the area covered by snow, the color of the ship was not one to help the searchers.

U.S. Would Lift Curbs On Travel By Soviets

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A State Department official said today the United States is ready to remove all travel restrictions on Soviet diplomats in this country if the Soviet Union lifts similar restrictions on American Embassy personnel there.

Since 1955 the United States has barred unrestricted travel by Soviet diplomats in about 45,000 square miles of U. S. territory. The Soviets had restricted travel of Americans for 15 years before that. The closed Soviet area embraces about 120,000 square miles including many of the major Soviet cities.

British Troop Cut OK'd

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP) — Britain today received approval from the Western European Union to reduce British forces in West Germany to 55,000 men by March 31, 1959.

This cut in strength of 8,500 men will be in addition to 13,500 being lopped off this fiscal year.

Ike Back In D. C. After Attending Brother's Rites

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29 (AP) — President Eisenhower, black-garbed and solemn-faced, joined a limited group of friends and relatives today in funeral services for his eldest brother.

The chief executive flew from Washington, was forced by fog to bypass Municipal Airport here and landed at nearby Olathe, Kan. Immediately after the brief rites he returned to Olathe for the return flight to the Capitol.

Eisenhower's plane returned him to Washington at 6:49 p.m.

The body of his brother, Arthur Eisenhower, 71, retired banker, was to be flown to New York City late tonight for burial. A second service will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Westchester County where the body will be entombed.

The President was accompanied here from Washington by his youngest brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University. They were joined by another brother, Earl, a newspaper publisher of La Grange, Ill.

Turnpike Crash Kills Bus Driver

EPHRATA, Pa., Jan. 29 (AP) — A Greyhound bus, traveling from St. Louis to New York with 34 passengers, smashed into the rear of an aluminum ingot-laden trailer-truck on the Pennsylvania Turnpike early today, killing the bus driver and injuring 21 passengers.

The truck driver was hurt.

It was the second fatal smash-up of a bus on Pennsylvania's toll road this month. On Jan. 17 a Transcontinental bus skidded on the ice-covered turnpike near Bedford and ripped in half, killing three.

This morning's crash occurred seven miles west of the Reading-Lancaster interchange.

Killed was James M. Bennett, 36, of Merchantville, N. J., whose body was jammed in the tangled bus wreckage for an hour before rescue workers cut it loose.

Seven persons were admitted to hospitals. The other 15 were treated for cuts, bruises and more minor injuries.

Truck driver Walter Kuhn, 28, of Martin Ferry, Ohio, was treated for bruises and discharged.

Four Die When Scaffold Falls

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Jan. 29 (AP)—An 85-foot high scaffold collapsed at the Texas Co. refinery here today, killing four construction workers.

Estimates of the number injured range from 4 to 15.

First reports said five men were killed, but a check at St. Mary's Hospital and the refinery showed only four dead. They were John Mauldin, about 20, of Port Neches, Tex.; Lester G. Edwards of Gilmore, La.; Douglas Jeffcoat, home town unavailable, and a man identified only as Gengrus.

All were employes of the W. G. Kellogg Construction Co., which was building a catayltic cracking unit at the refinery.

J. E. Welch, carpenter foreman, said the scaffold crashed with a roar that sounded like an avalanche and fell on a tin shed, demolishing it.

Gales, Rain Delay Army's Effort To Launch "Moon"

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Winds up to 140 m.p.h., liberally laced with rain, washed out the Army's chances of launching the Jupiter-C satellite rocket today.

The Weather Bureau forecast was for partly cloudy skies Thursday, with lighter winds.

Gales that wiped out any hope of a launch were in the upper altitudes.

A six-foot thick tube of metal more than 70 feet long, such as the Jupiter-C, could be sheared apart by such winds.

At the very least, the rocket might be buffeted so far out of the proper altitude it must maintain — in order to put its satellite aloft — that its departure from course could not be corrected.

Even on the ground, gusts were whipping past the launch tower.

Wind was not the only element that plagued the Jupiter-C, just as it had helped frustrate the Navy Vanguard satellite launch attempt before it.

There were drainage problems in the rain-swept launching area.

Last Friday, rain flooded underground electrical lines, cutting off the power supply to the Air Force launching complex.

This prevented the Air Force from launching a Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile. Not until the weather cleared Tuesday did the Thor get off the ground.

Rain, too, will seep into the many connections involved in the checking a missile. This difficulty might also involve the Jupiter-C.

Ike's Education Bill Under GOP Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — President Eisenhower's education bill came in for a strong Republican attack today as two Democrats announced they would offer a substitute.

Rep. Gwinn (R-NY) denounced the Eisenhower proposal, designed largely to step up science education, as a political scheme to get votes. Gwinn prepared his indictment for a speech in the House, but adjournment came before he got the floor, so he put it in the record.

Meanwhile, Sen. Hill (D-Ala) and Rep. Elliott (D-Ala) announced they would introduce tomorrow bills calling for a three-billion-dollar, six-year federal program to strengthen the education system.

This would compare with a four-year, one-billion program recommended by the President.

Family Describes "Mad Dog" Killer As No Good, But Crack Shot With Gun

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 29 (AP) —A swaggering good - for - nothing in blue jeans and a black motorcycle jacket...mad at the world...devoted to comic books...with but one major accomplishment: an eye that sweeps across a gunsight sure as radar and hands dead-steady with a gun.

This is the way his family sees Charles Starkweather, 19, seized in a Midwestern manhunt for the mad-dog slaying of nine.

Starkweather's appearance is unusual, but hardly impressive. He stands only 5-feet-5, weighs 140 pounds, has green eyes and dark red hair cut short on top. There's a short scar over his right eye.

He is very bowlegged and a little pigeontoed, but he walks with a swagger in black and white cowboy boots.

In a sudden rage, a sister-in-law says he would lean from the cab of a garbage truck on which he worked and shout, "Go to hell!" at strangers.

He was "kicked out of grade school because he had too many fights," kicked out of his home after a quarrel with his father and later locked out of his room for nonpayment of rent.

"Chuck would lounge in the cab of my husband's truck and read comic books while my husband did all the work," Mrs. Starkweather said.

He was "so worthless on his job that his brother demanded that he be fired," she added.

Mrs. Starkweather recalled: "Rodney once told us something that scared me a little bit.

"He said that when he and Chuck went hunting and Chuck was using an automatic rifle, he could not quit shooting once he started to pull the trigger.

"He would shoot crazy-like and empty the gun at no target at all."

But Rodney himself said Charles was also a "crack shot—the game he shot always were shot in the head."

Eight of nine persons whose death figured in the hunt for Starkweather had been shot in the head.

The red-haired, trigger-happy 19-year-old had picked for his steady girl—plump, jean-favoring Caril Ann Fugate who was only 14 but was well developed physically and might have been taken for 18.

They had been going steady for 1º months.

"I don't know whether they planned to get married or what," said Caril's father, William Fugate.

Killer Forfeits Right To Appeal By Escape

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (AP)—The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that Leslie (Mad Dog) Irvin, 33, forfeited all rights to appeal by fleeing from custody while under sentence.

Charged with killing six persons, Irvin was tried for the murder of an Evansville, Ind., filling station attendant of Dec. 23, 1954. He was convicted and sentenced to death.

While awaiting a plea for a new trial, Irvin escaped on Jan. 18, 1956, and was recaptured. He took his appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on the ground his constitutional rights had been violated.

The agreement, which provides for increased exchange of persons, delegations, motion pictures and radio - television programs, was signed in Washington Monday by Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and William S. B. Lacey of the U.S. State Department.

British Troop Cut OK'd

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP) — Britain today received approval from the Western European Union to reduce British forces in West Germany to 55,000 men by March 31, 1959.

This cut in strength of 8,500 men will be in addition to 13,500 being lopped off this fiscal year.

House Leaders Draft President Disability Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A legislative formula for a vice president to serve, in case of need, as acting president was reported today to have been worked out in conferences of House leaders.

A draft of a proposed presidential disability statute was laid before a special House Judiciary subcommittee, which met in strict secrecy. It was understood to have discussed the draft with Atty. Gen. Rogers and asked him to examine it and report back with the views of President Eisenhower's administration.

Chairman Celler (D-NY) of the Judiciary Committee said "There is no agreement whatsoever."

However, the preparation of the draft bill followed meetings of subcommittee members with House leaders of both parties.

The bill would create a Commission on Presidential Inability, made up mostly of key House and Senate members.

It would provide that, when a president declared himself incapacitated, or when the commission by a vote of at least six of its seven voting members so found, the vice president would take over the powers and duties of the presidency as acting president. By similar procedure, the commission could declare the president recovered, and he would resume active exercise of his office.

The question of temporary succession to the presidency has often been discussed, especially during the long periods of physical disability suffered by presidents Garfield and Wilson. But the vague language of the Constitution on the subject has never been implemented.

The subject was again discussed after President Eisenhower's first-term heart attack and his subsequent illnesses. Eisenhower himself urged Congress to clear up the constitutional doubts.

The bill now proposed, however, differs in major respects from the proposal Eisenhower made last year. He suggested amending the Constitution, a process that normally requires years, to provide that the vice president might take over temporarily if the president or the Cabinet declared the chief executive incapacitated.

Prober Reports FCC Documents Missing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) said tonight he has been reliably informed that certain unspecified documents are missing from the files of the Federal Communications Commission.

Williams is a member of a House investigating committee which decided today to start open hearings Monday on the conduct of FCC members.

The Mississippi Democrat said both he and Rep. Flynt (D-Ga) another committee member, have been told that documents were missing.

Asked if they might be pertinent to the House inquiry, he said he could not say.

The committee, headed by Rep. Moulder (D-Mo), called in reporters at the end of a two-hour session to inform them of the decision. The hearings will be held for three days.

Rep. Harris (D-Ark), chairman of the parent House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, said the committee decided that its staff director "immediately shall supply individual commissioners with a written specification of charges of any alleged misconduct upon which he may be interrogated during the hearing and such information shall be supplied at least three days in advance of the hearing."

Harris said also the committee decided that the chairman will make available immediately to each of the commissioners a copy of a staff memorandum provided by staff counsel.

This memorandum, which came to light last week but has not been officially released, said some FCC members illegally had accepted industry favors. John C. Doerfer, FCC chairman, called it inaccurate and misleading.

Training Range For Missilemen On Pacific Coast

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Defense Department today announced establishment of a ballistic missile training range on the Pacific Coast that will eventually extend several thousand miles over the ocean.

The Navy was assigned to manage the new, major effort for all three military services. The range will use facilities, soon to be enlarged, at the Air Force Missile Training Center at Cooke Air Force Base, Lompoc, Calif., and the Navy's own test center at Point Mugu, northwest of Los Angeles.

The Pentagon said the new three-service training range in the Pacific will supplement the work now carried on from Cape Canaveral, Fla., where the Air Force is in command.

The primary mission of the Florida range will continue to be research and development while the combined operation from the Pacific Coast will emphasize training in the launching of intermediate-range and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Air Force has already started organization of its missile training center at Cooke, a former Army base. The Pentagon said that the Air Force will continue its own training activities, but that when the time comes to launch long-range missiles, the greatly expanded Navy operation will provide communications, tracking and instrumentation support for whatever missile is fired from either Cooke or Point Mugu.

The Navy said that to carry out its job, it will take over about 19,000 acres at Camp Cooke that have not been used by the Air Force.

The Pentagon described the Pacific range as extending 500 miles along the Pacific Coast and about 250 miles seaward.

Plane Carrying Five Missing

CHARLESTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A chartered plane with five persons aboard vanished in snow mists enshrouding Southern West Virginia mountains and still was missing today, 24 hours later.

An unrelenting search by Civil Air Patrol planes and ground crews was pressed in the Charleston area throughout the day without tangible results.

The plane had been chartered in Clearwater, Fla., by Beverly L. Michie, 48, to bring his ailing 72-year-old mother, Mrs. Bertha M. Michie, to Charleston for medical attention. An ambulance waited in vain at Kanawha Airport late yesterday to transfer Mrs. Michie to a hospital.

The crew members were identified in Clearwater as co - pilots Thomas Sternad and Robert Phillips of the Clearwater area, and Mrs. Luis W. Puckett of Clearwater, doing substitute duty as a nurse.

Mrs. Puckett was described as being regularly employed as secretary to George Moon, president of Southeastern Electronics Corp. and owner of the flying service which leased the plane.

The ship was described as white with blue markings. With the area covered by snow, the color of the ship was not one to help the searchers.

U.S. Would Lift Curbs On Travel By Soviets

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A State Department official said today the United States is ready to remove all travel restrictions on Soviet diplomats in this country if the Soviet Union lifts similar restrictions on American Embassy personnel there.

Since 1955 the United States has barred unrestricted travel by Soviet diplomats in about 45,000 square miles of U. S. territory. The Soviets had restricted travel of Americans for 15 years before that. The closed Soviet area embraces about 120,000 square miles including many of the major Soviet cities.

Ike Back In D. C. After Attending Brother's Rites

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29 (AP) — President Eisenhower, black-garbed and solemn-faced, joined a limited group of friends and relatives today in funeral services for his eldest brother.

The chief executive flew from Washington, was forced by fog to bypass Municipal Airport here and landed at nearby Olathe, Kan. Immediately after the brief rites he returned to Olathe for the return flight to the Capitol.

Eisenhower's plane returned him to Washington at 6:49 p.m.

The body of his brother, Arthur Eisenhower, 71, retired banker, was to be flown to New York City late tonight for burial. A second service will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Westchester County where the body will be entombed.

The President was accompanied here from Washington by his youngest brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University. They were joined by another brother, Earl, a newspaper publisher of La Grange, Ill.

Turnpike Crash Kills Bus Driver

EPHRATA, Pa., Jan. 29 (AP) — A Greyhound bus, traveling from St. Louis to New York with 34 passengers, smashed into the rear of an aluminum ingot-laden trailer-truck on the Pennsylvania Turnpike early today, killing the bus driver and injuring 21 passengers.

The truck driver was hurt.

It was the second fatal smash-up of a bus on Pennsylvania's toll road this month. On Jan. 17 a Transcontinental bus skidded on the ice-covered turnpike near Bedford and ripped in half, killing three.

This morning's crash occurred seven miles west of the Reading-Lancaster interchange.

Killed was James M. Bennett, 36, of Merchantville, N. J., whose body was jammed in the tangled bus wreckage for an hour before rescue workers cut it loose.

Seven persons were admitted to hospitals. The other 15 were treated for cuts, bruises and more minor injuries.

Truck driver Walter Kuhn, 28, of Martin Ferry, Ohio, was treated for bruises and discharged.

Today's Chuckle

The teacher looked sternly at the boy: "I am told you went to the movies yesterday instead of coming to school."

"That's not true," said the boy, "and I've got a fish to prove it."

Four Die When Scaffold Falls

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Jan. 29 (AP)—An 85-foot high scaffold collapsed at the Texas Co. refinery here today, killing four construction workers.

Estimates of the number injured range from 4 to 15.

First reports said five men were killed, but a check at St. Mary's Hospital and the refinery showed only four dead. They were John Mauldin, about 20, of Port Neches, Tex.; Lester G. Edwards of Gilmore, La.; Douglas Jeffcoat, home town unavailable, and a man identified only as Gengrus.

All were employes of the W. G. Kellogg Construction Co., which was building a catayltic cracking unit at the refinery.

J. E. Welch, carpenter foreman, said the scaffold crashed with a roar that sounded like an avalanche and fell on a tin shed, demolishing it.

Gales, Rain Delay Army's Effort To Launch "Moon"

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Winds up to 140 m.p.h., liberally laced with rain, washed out the Army's chances of launching the Jupiter-C satellite rocket today.

The Weather Bureau forecast was for partly cloudy skies Thursday, with lighter winds.

Gales that wiped out any hope of a launch were in the upper altitudes.

A six-foot thick tube of metal more than 70 feet long, such as the Jupiter-C, could be sheared apart by such winds.

At the very least, the rocket might be buffeted so far out of the proper altitude it must maintain — in order to put its satellite aloft — that its departure from course could not be corrected.

Even on the ground, gusts were whipping past the launch tower.

Wind was not the only element that plagued the Jupiter-C, just as it had helped frustrate the Navy Vanguard satellite launch attempt before it.

There were drainage problems in the rain-swept launching area.

Last Friday, rain flooded underground electrical lines, cutting off the power supply to the Air Force launching complex.

This prevented the Air Force from launching a Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile. Not until the weather cleared Tuesday did the Thor get off the ground.

Rain, too, will seep into the many connections involved in the checking a missile. This difficulty might also involve the Jupiter-C.

Ike's Education Bill Under GOP Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — President Eisenhower's education bill came in for a strong Republican attack today as two Democrats announced they would offer a substitute.

Rep. Gwinn (R-NY) denounced the Eisenhower proposal, designed largely to step up science education, as a political scheme to get votes. Gwinn prepared his indictment for a speech in the House, but adjournment came before he got the floor, so he put it in the record.

Meanwhile, Sen. Hill (D-Ala) and Rep. Elliott (D-Ala) announced they would introduce tomorrow bills calling for a three-billion-dollar, six-year federal program to strengthen the education system.

This would compare with a four-year, one-billion program recommended by the President.

Family Describes "Mad Dog" Killer As No Good, But Crack Shot With Gun

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 29 (AP) —A swaggering good - for - nothing in blue jeans and a black motorcycle jacket...mad at the world...devoted to comic books...with but one major accomplishment: an eye that sweeps across a gunsight sure as radar and hands dead-steady with a gun.

This is the way his family sees Charles Starkweather, 19, seized in a Midwestern manhunt for the mad-dog slaying of nine.

Starkweather's appearance is unusual, but hardly impressive. He stands only 5-feet-5, weighs 140 pounds, has green eyes and dark red hair cut short on top. There's a short scar over his right eye.

He is very bowlegged and a little pigeontoed, but he walks with a swagger in black and white cowboy boots.

In a sudden rage, a sister-in-law says he would lean from the cab of a garbage truck on which he worked and shout, "Go to hell!" at strangers.

He was "kicked out of grade school because he had too many fights," kicked out of his home after a quarrel with his father and later locked out of his room for nonpayment of rent.

"Chuck would lounge in the cab of my husband's truck and read comic books while my husband did all the work," Mrs. Starkweather said.

He was "so worthless on his job that his brother demanded that he be fired," she added.

Mrs. Starkweather recalled: "Rodney once told us something that scared me a little bit.

"He said that when he and Chuck went hunting and Chuck was using an automatic rifle, he could not quit shooting once he started to pull the trigger.

"He would shoot crazy-like and empty the gun at no target at all."

But Rodney himself said Charles was also a "crack shot—the game he shot always were shot in the head."

Eight of nine persons whose death figured in the hunt for Starkweather had been shot in the head.

The red-haired, trigger-happy 19-year-old had picked for his steady girl—plump, jean-favoring Caril Ann Fugate who was only 14 but was well developed physically and might have been taken for 18.

They had been going steady for 19 months.

"I don't know whether they planned to get married or what," said Caril's father, William Fugate.

Killer Forfeits Right To Appeal By Escape

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (AP)—The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that Leslie (Mad Dog) Irvin, 33, forfeited all rights to appeal by fleeing from custody while under sentence.

Charged with killing six persons, Irvin was tried for the murder of an Evansville, Ind., filling station attendant of Dec. 23, 1954. He was convicted and sentenced to death.

While awaiting a plea for a new trial, Irvin escaped on Jan. 18, 1956, and was recaptured. He took his appeal to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on the ground his constitutional rights had been violated.

Del. Hughes To Introduce State Study Group Bill

A study group with functions on the state level much the same as the Hoover Commission in federal government will be asked in a bill to be sponsored by Del. George R. Hughes Jr. when the General Assembly convenes next week.

Del. Hughes, in a statement prepared for delivery at a dinner in Riviera Beach yesterday evening with the five other top leaders of the legislature, said the time has come for a study and re-examination of state spending.

Del. Hughes was invited to dinner with a group of residents of the small community on the Patapsco River ten miles southeast of Baltimore to participate in a forum about next month's session.

The idea behind the meeting is a return to the town hall type of meeting that prevailed in Maryland during colonial days. And to keep it completely in tune, the forum was held in a red school house.

The local delegate, minority floor leader in the House of Delegates, said in the statement that for the past two years he has had a first hand opportunity to study the budget and to try to eliminate non-essential appropriations while serving as a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

He recalled the twice-daily meetings together with some night sessions; the work of subcommittees during the 90-day term last year. All of these efforts resulted in a reduction of nearly $3,000,000.

However, Del. Hughes pointed out the total result, while accomplishing a balanced budget without new taxes, did not and could not establish a trend toward curtailment in state spending.

A ten, 15 or 20 per cent reduction is an impossibility at a 30-day session such as the one starting Wednesday, he declared, unless cuts are to be made blindly and without regard for effect on governmental functions to be curtailed.

Department heads daily ask the Ways and Means Committee for more money, not less, and the case for reduced spending has small opportunity to be heard, the minority leader added.

The governmental process has become so vast, intricate and technical the present system for examining the budget during a legislative session is rapidly becoming obsolete and ineffective, he stated.

The time has come to competently and critically study and re-examine state governmental functions from a policy standpoint, taking into consideration which services the people are willing to forego and which of these the people can most easily do without, he added.

The bill he will introduce will create a permanent commission which will analyze state services, rate the efficiency with which they are offered; determine their need.

The commission would also recommend to succeeding legislatures specific means for the elimination of non-essential functions, and the reduction of costs of those which are essential and truly governmental in nature, he added.

This would be similar in character and purpose to the Hoover Commission on the federal level, he pointed out.

Others invited to the Riviera Beach forum were Sen. Louis Goldstein, (D-Calvert), president of the Senate; House Speaker John C. Luber (D-Balto. 5th); Senate Majority Leader John Grayson Turnbull (D-Balto Co.); Senate Minority Leader Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset); and House Majority Leader A. Gordon Boone (Balto. Co.).

Deadline Due Friday For SS Benefits

Unless they file applications by January 31, many Cumberland area residents will lose Social Security benefits for 1957, according to James E. Robertson, district manager of the local office.

Robertson pointed out that there is some misunderstanding concerning how much a person may earn and still receive benefits. The test or measure to determine whether a person is eligible for benefits based on the earnings can be best explained if thought of in two separate parts.

First, a person whose earnings are $1,200 or less during the year is entitled to checks for all months of the year provided he meets all other requirements. However, if the person earns more than $1,200 he loses one month's benefit for each $80 or part of $80 he exceeds the $1,200. Therefore under this part of the test, if a person works in all months of the year and earns more than $2,080 there are no benefits payable; if he earns between $1,200 and $2,080 some benefits may be payable.

The second part of the test provides that a person will not lose a benefit for any month in which he does not earn more than $80 in wages or in which he does not render substantial services to his business if he is self-employed.

Therefore, under this part of the test, a person who earns more than $2,080 may still be eligible for benefits for some months of the year. In every application, both parts of the test are applied and the method which provides for the most benefits is used.

Any person who wants more information on how the law applies to his particular case should contact the nearest Social Security office. This includes any self-employed person who wants to know whether the services he renders are considered substantial under the law. The contact should be made before February 1958, if the person believes he may be eligible for benefits beginning with January 1957.

Davis Memorial Church To Expand Cemetery

Davis Memorial Methodist Church has acquired 4.67 acres of land on the southeast side of Uhl Highway, also known as the Oldtown Road, to expand its cemetery.

The deed was filed for record Tuesday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. The property is on the southeast side of Uhl Highway about three miles southeast of Cumberland and in Election District 16.

About 11 years ago, the church bought about three acres for a cemetery and now is planning to expand. The property just purchased from Robert W. Young and Edith M. Young will be cleared and graded as soon as weather permits.

Tom Swift Back

Nation's Youth Busy With Rocket Tests

[By The Associated Press]

Tom Swift is back. In thousands of backyards and garages kids of the space age are constructing rockets that arch out of sight into the skies—or fizzle or burst with sometimes tragic results.

Adults worry about the Russian satellites and the military race to produce the best missiles. Teenagers, oblivious to politics and propaganda, blithely plunge into their own celebration of the geophysical year.

Tom Swift—a fictional inventive genius of this century's boyhood—would be proud of them. Their rockets range from bits of pipe packed with Four of July gunpower and ingeniously fired with an old car spark coil to aerodynamically designed missiles worthy of engineers.

But Tom Swift would be saddened by the dozens of accidents and the two deaths chalked up so far to experiments with amateur rockets.

From 17 states come the grim and probably incomplete totals: two killed and 58 injured in the past few months. A teacher and an 11-year-old boy lie dead, a 15-year-old suffered a brain injury, other boys lost fingers, damaged their eyes, burned and scarred their faces, mangled their arms and hands. The tragic list grows every week.

The Army's top missile man, Maj. Gen. H. N. Toftoy, head of the huge Redstone experimental center in Alabama, understands the boys' urge to tinker with the space ship of the future but fears they'll never live to ride in it.

"We don't want to lose the next crop of young scientists before they get started," he said.

Redstone now issues a list of precautions for science teachers. Army experts are preparing a booklet on the art of building safe backyard rockets.

State legislatures are considering laws to forbid indiscriminate firings, yet still allow properly supervised experiments. Some police officers and town fathers have clamped an outright ban on amateur rockets.

Against the uncounted number of careful, or lucky, shoots stands that accident tally.

It shows at last count:

Ten youngsters injured in Idaho, 10 more in Texas, 5 each in Indiana, Oregon, and Michigan, 4 in Virginia and Colorado, 3 in Alabama, 2 each in Kansas, Maryland and Washington, and 1 each in North Carolina, New Jersey, Missouri, Iowa, Ohio and New Mexico.

Robber Kills Self, Pal Surrenders

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill., Jan. 29 (AP)—Police said one gunman gave up meekly and another apparently decided to kill himself rather than risk capture last night after the two robbed a Evansville, Ind. grocery of between $500 and $1,000. Both men were ex-convicts.

The man who surrendered was identified as Robert Dane Finton, 32, of Gary, Ind.

Police said Finton kidnaped a 45-year-old woman at Evansville and forced her to drive him to Princeton, Ind. The woman, Mrs. Charles Omer, was unharmed.

The man who shot himself as authorities closed in on him was identified as John S. Boyce, 27, Portland, Ore. Boyce shot himself in his car near Rockport, Ind., after Indiana police tried to stop him.

Finton was seized as he rode in a taxicab. Though he had a pistol, Finton gave up without any show of resistance.

McKeldin Deplores Waste In Weapons

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — This nation can't go on indefinitely building great weapons, then junking them and building more super weapons for the scrap heap, Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland said tonight.

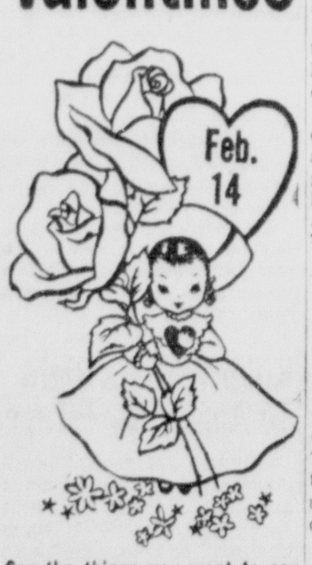

"It is not only extremely expensive in our fiscal resources; it is extremely wasteful of our intelligence, our manpower and of our natural resources," he said.

McKeldin gave these views in a speech prepared for delivery at a banquet of the leadership training school of the Young Republican National Federation.

He said the most pressing problem facing the national government is to maintain our military defensive and striking strength at a level that deters aggression by a potential enemy.

"But," he added, "in the longer range of our thinking, no nation can continue indefinitely to support the seemingly futile program of building great weapons today and junking them tomorrow. . . and on ad infinitum."

Defense Research Setup Called Obsolete

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A former Pentagon research and development chief told congressmen today the present defense research setup is obsolete.

It needs at least a certain amount of streamlining, Clifford C. Furnas, onetime assistant secretary under former Secretary of Defense Wilson and now chancellor of Buffalo University, told a House Government Operations subcommittee.

He said the assistant secretary for research should have both more positive control—by being given funds for central basic research—and veto power to stop expensive development by the separate armed services on projects that aren't worthwhile.

parently been napping in his car when Starkweather drove up.

"Starkweather shot once through the window of the car and said 'Come out.' Dixon related. Then he blasted him—Collison — five or six times" Dixon said Starkweather told him he wanted Collison's car because his own was "too hot."

An oil company worker, Joe Sprinkle of Casper, walked into the muzzle of a .22 caliber rifle to start Starkweather's fall into the hands of police.

Dep. Sheriff Romer was on a rent receipt inspection job when he spotted two men fighting over a gun near two stalled cars. One was Sprinkle, fighting for his life. As Romer pulled up, Starkweather ran for his car. The Fugate girl fled from the getaway car and ran screaming to Romer.

Romer radioed for a roadblock which was flung up hastily but Starkweather roared through it at more than 100 miles an hour. Sheriff Heflin and an officer gave chase, firing at the fleeing car. It careened through Douglas and five miles out of town pulled to a stop.

The sullen gunman offered no resistance. He had a .32 caliber pistol with him. It was empty.

Back at the scene of the struggle, Sprinkle stood near the parked car. Shoved down under the dashboard was the body of Collison.

The Casper oil employe was short and to the point about why he had jumped Starkweather. He had stopped because the two cars were parked and he thought somebody needed help.

When Starkweather jammed the rifle in his face Sprinkle grabbed it.

"All I saw was the gun barrel and every time I looked it got bigger," he said. Sprinkle is a husky 185-pounder and he won the deadly tug-of-war with the 5-foot-5 gunman. Then, Sprinkle said he found the rifle was empty.

In a Douglas jail cell, Starkweather asserted he had shot his Nebraska victims in self-defense.

"What would you do if they tried to come at you?" newsman Phil McAuley quoted Starkweather.

As night closed in over this cattle town, a strict guard was set over Starkweather. The Fugate girl, who Starkweather said had been forced by him to go along, was under sedation.

Dixie Negroes Plan Vast Drive For New Voters

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 29 (AP)—With a goal of two million new voters by 1960, Southern Negroes are getting ready for a sharply intensified registration campaign in 11 Dixie states.

The massive drive which would more than double the estimated number of Negroes now eligible to vote in the Deep South will start with a series of Lincoln Day rallies in 20 or more Southern cities Feb. 12. Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) is among the Negro leaders scheduled to speak.

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy of Montgomery, treasurer of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference which is sponsoring the campaign, said his people will be urged to use the new federal civil rights law "wherever necessary to point out discrimination."

Abernathy and other members of the conference executive committee will discuss detailed plans for the voter registration effort at a meeting in Atlanta tomorrow.

The Baptist minister said no state-by-state allocations have been announced but that the "long-range goal" of the campaign is two million new Negro voters within the next two years. He said the conference has adopted a bcdget of $200,000 to spend on the vote drive this year.

Abernathy said an estimated 1,238,000 Negro voters were registered in the 11 Southern states in 1956, only about one-fourth of the 4,980,000 Negroes of voting age.

By contrast, he said 60 per cent of the white residents in those states are registered voters.

The conference leader said Texas, with 214,000, led the Southern states in the number of eligible Negro voters while Mississippi, with only 20,000 estimated Negro voters in 1955 was at the bottom of the list.

2½ Million M.P.H. Space Flight Motors Forecast

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (AP)—Spaceflight motors reaching speeds of 700 miles a second—2½ million miles an hour—were described today to the American Astronautical Society.

They don't exist yet but they should be possible, said Dr. Winston H. Bostick, professor of physics at Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N.J.

They would be plasma motors. In this case, plasma means a cloud of ionized or electrically charged gas.

The idea is to use pulses of electric current and magnetism to get the gas particles moving at fantastic speeds. Then they could be shot out of the motor to produce a forward thrust. They would act like the expanding hot chemical gases that come out of the tailpipe of an ordinary rocket and push it forward.

Such a motor would work only in the vacuum of space. It could be turned on when a ship was out in space to give it tremendous speed. At 2½ million miles an hour, a ship could reach Mars in 15 to 20 hours.

Addressing the society's fourth annual meeting, Dr. Bostick told how such a motor might be constructed. Laboratory experiments along this line are just starting, he said.

Russian scientists last year published a theoretical report dealing with this same idea, he added.

The principle is somewhat like that aimed at getting peaceful power from the H-bomb reaction. There, electric current and magnetic forces are used to try to make ionized hydrogen atom cores fuse together to produce power.

Dr. Bostick formerly worked on some aspects of H-fusion experiments. He and associates also had experimented then with an elementary kind of plasma gun. He said it produced some ions clocked at speeds of about 360,000 miles an hour.

Long Would Boost Jobless Payments

BALTIMORE, Jan. 29 (AP)—Clarence D. Long, college professor seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, urged today that payments be increased to unemployed throughout the nation.

"The maximum ceilings on benefits should be raised so that all half of their regulated wages as contemplated in the original act and not have their spending powers cut by rising inflation," Long said in a prepared statement.

He said a personal survey disclosed that the average weekly benefit check for Maryland jobless is $30.

Increased payments, said the professor of economics at Johns Hopkins University, would "maintain the living standards of workers in recession and also help stabilize their buying power and, therefore, employment, production and profit."

Russian Boy, 15, Musical Genius

MOSCOW, Jan. 29 (AP)—Aloysha Nasedkin, 15, was acclaimed today by his teacher as a musical genius.

The teacher, Anna Danilevna Artobolevskaya, said he is the greatest the nation has produced in her lifetime and she has trained most of the Soviet Union's best musicians.

She said Nasedkin began playing the piano when he was 5 and turned out his first opera when 9. He has now written two operas, a symphony ballet and has a stack of records to his credit.

Anna was quoted in Komsomol Pravda as saying: "I've never come across a musician like him. He has extraordinary musical memory, outstanding appreciation of tones. At 6½ he was note perfect."

Soviet-Egyptian Pact

MOSCOW, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Soviet Union and Egypt tonight signed an economic aid and cooperation agreement which an Egyptian spokesman said provides "all we need to develop our industry."

Education Dept. Posts Shuffled

BALTIMORE, Jan. 29 (AP)—Five native Marylanders were involved today in a shuffling of administrative personnel in the State Department of Education.

William S. Sartorius of Worcester County was named assistant state superintendent in administration, finance and research. He takes on work of the late Dr. John J. Seidel.

Sartorious joined the department in 1952 after being a teacher, principal and superintendent in Worcester, Baltimore and Cecil counties.

Dr. Willis H. White of Talbot County succeeds the late Dr. James E. Spitznas as state director of instruction. White has been in the department since 1952. He taught in Anne Arundel County and was a high school principal in Prince George's, Calvert, Dorchester and Baltimore counties.

Herschel M. James, state supervisor of industrial education since 1946, was named director of the Division of Vocational Education. He was a high school teacher and supervisor of industrial in education in Allegany County before taking a state job in 1941.

Paul Huffington, a native of Wicomico County, will be assistant to James.

Dr. Wesley N. Dorn will leave his post as assistant superintendent for business affairs in Washington County to become state supervisor of instruction. He was born in Baltimore.

Youth Killed In Dynamite Blast Set Off With Rifle

LEBANON, Tenn., Jan. 29 (AP)—This middle Tennessee town was rocked today by the terrific explosion of a truckload of dynamite, set off when a teen-age boy fired a .22 caliber rifle into it.

Glenn Turner Gulley, 15, was horribly mangled and killed outright. His companion, Charles Prewitt, 17, suffered critical injuries.

Residents of the area, a short distance outside Lebanon, said the boys apparently were hunting rabbits when one of them fired his rifle at the vehicle. Both guns were found nearby, one of them freshly fired.

The trailer-truck and its 30 cases of dynamite had been parked in a wooded area near the center of a large field by a construction firm at work on a nearby highway project.

The force of the explosion blasted 11 windows from the courthouse, about three miles away, and shattered numerous windows in business houses in this town of 9,200 population.

Dwellings in the explosion area were damaged heavily, windows and doors were blown out and ceilings were cracked.

However, no one else was reported killed or injured.

Polio March Returns Lag Behind 1957

A preliminary report of returns in Tuesday's Mothers March on Polio shows contributions are less than received in last year's campaign, but indications are that the appeal will not fall too far short of expectations.

Slightly more than $2,000 was collected by volunteers Tuesday, according to returns at the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. Last year's total was in excess of $3,100.

League spokesmen pointed out, however, that the campaign Tuesday was hampered by the lack of volunteer workers, and indicated that some streets and sections of the city will be canvassed at a later date. The late returns, it was stated, might make the final total well within reach of last year's $3,145.

Available returns, showing this year's collection and last year's total, are:

Corriganville, $77.55, $92.65; John Humbird School area, $86.50, $80.75; Potomac Park, $87, $105; North End, $333.87, $409.34; Union Grove, $49.46, $38.72; Homewood Addition, $5.48, $15.08; Gephart School area, $267.88, $386.01.

LaVale, $126.95, $420.29; midtown, $101.87, $131.15; Johnson Heights, $290.33, $424.65; Bowman's Addition, $61.90, $61; Virginia Avenue, $132.15, $375.65; Pennsylvania Avenue, $205.48, $205.48; West Side, $400, $187.79.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, chairman of the Mothers March, said the majority of the areas where donations are much below last year's collection are where entire streets were not canvassed. Many calls have been received from residents who were not contacted Tuesday, she continued, and plans will be made to canvass the streets within the next day or so.

Returns are still lagging from the outlying communities, Mrs. Nave said. The only final report has been turned in by Mrs. Chester Yates, who headed the appeal in the Vale Summit-Loartown region. Collections in that area Tuesday amounted to $60.45, which surpassed last year's total, Mrs. Nave said.

Assisting in totaling the returns last night at the Crippled Children's center were Mrs. Nave, Mrs. Dorothy Daychak, co-chairman of the Mothers March; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Cioni, and Thomas Cline, Charles Ralston and William Turbin, representatives of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force.

Court Fines Man $1,000

Lewis Yankelevitz, city, who was found guilty in Circuit Court last week on charges of embezzlement and larceny after trust, yesterday was fined $1,000 on the embezzlement and given suspended sentences on four other charges.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in sentencing Yankelevitz said: "You have lived here all your life and reared a family. Your trouble is not one in which you cooly and deliberately attempted to defraud but which arose from unfortunate business transactions."

Yankelevitz had been in the freezer and frozen food business and the embezzlement charge resulted from the resale of repossessed freezers and failure to turn over the receipts to the Second National Bank through which they had been financed.

Yankelevitz' defense was that the bank had about $5,000 in an account credited to him and the amount of money realized from the freezer sales totaled $3,100.

At the same time, a Red Cross first aid course will be started. Approximately 25 nurses who have graduated from CD Nurses' Disaster Course will participate.

The first aid program is open to the public.

A movie on CD activities in the county also will be shown. Casualty Station 1 took part in the film. A. A. Robertson is administrative officer.

Toughest automotive tests of all time prove
LOW-COST PLYMOUTH LOOKS, RUNS LIKE NEW—AFTER 58,000 MILES
It's America's biggest automotive value—when you buy it . . . and when you trade

Dramatic braking test made before top automotive editors. The Plymouth on the right had just completed a 58,000-mile cross-country run.
Other tests included acceleration, ride smoothness, gas economy, handling ease. The 58,000-mile veteran performed like new!
One of the Plymouths above is fresh from the assembly line. The other, a veteran of the toughest test run of all time: 58,000 continuous miles in 58 days. A thousand miles a day through 37 states.
We put both cars through the same exacting tests. Acceleration. Gas economy. Handling ease. Braking efficiency.
The results: the Plymouth that had driven 58,000 miles—the equivalent of 6 years on the road—could hardly be told from new. Like the new Plymouth, it zoomed from 0 to 40, 40 to 60 in a matter of seconds. In a 40-mph "panic" stop, it halted within 38 inches of the new car. And in the vital area of gas economy, careful tests proved that the 58,000-mile car delivered almost the exact same mileage as the new Plymouth. It rode with a smoothness and handled with an ease that astounded even veteran test drivers . . . men who had thought they'd seen everything.
What does it all prove? Just this: from the day you buy it, to the day you trade it in, your new Plymouth will take you to wherever you're going . . . faster, smoother, easier, safer. You get more value now . . . and you look forward to more dollars when you trade.
Why not see your Plymouth dealer now? He'll give you a fair appraisal of your present car. Then you'll see how easy it is to own America's biggest automotive value.
Plymouth stays young and proves it!

Del. Hughes To Introduce State Study Group Bill

A study group with functions on the state level much the same as the Hoover Commission in federal government will be asked in a bill to be sponsored by Del. George R. Hughes Jr. when the General Assembly convenes next week.

Del. Hughes, in a statement prepared for delivery at a dinner in Riviera Beach yesterday evening with the five other top leaders of the legislature, said the time has come for a study and re-examination of state spending.

Del. Hughes was invited to dinner with a group of residents of the small community on the Patapsco River ten miles southeast of Baltimore to participate in a forum about next month's session.

The idea behind the meeting is a return to the town hall type of meeting that prevailed in Maryland during colonial days. And to keep it completely in tune, the forum was held in a red school house.

The local delegate, minority floor leader in the House of Delegates, said in the statement that for the past two years he has had a first hand opportunity to study the budget and to try to eliminate non-essential appropriations while serving as a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

He recalled the twice-daily meetings together with some night sessions; the work of subcommittees during the 90-day term last year. All of these efforts resulted in a reduction of nearly $3,000,000.

However, Del. Hughes pointed out the total result, while accomplishing a balanced budget without new taxes, did not and could not establish a trend toward curtailment in state spending.

A ten, 15 or 20 per cent reduction is an impossibility at a 30-day session such as the one starting Wednesday, he declared, unless cuts are to be made blindly and without regard for effect on governmental functions to be curtailed.

Department heads daily ask the Ways and Means Committee for more money, not less, and the case for reduced spending has small opportunity to be heard, the minority leader added.

The governmental process has become so vast, intricate and technical the present system for examining the budget during a legislative session is rapidly becoming obsolete and ineffective, he stated.

The time has come to competently and critically study and re-examine state governmental functions from a policy standpoint, taking into consideration which services the people are willing to forego and which of these the people can most easily do without, he added.

The bill he will introduce will create a permanent commission which will analyze state services, rate the efficiency with which they are offered; determine their need.

The commission would also recommend to succeeding legislatures specific means for the elimination of non-essential functions, and the reduction of costs of those which are essential and truly governmental in nature, he added.

This would be similar in character and purpose to the Hoover Commission on the federal level, he pointed out.

Others invited to the Riviera Beach forum were Sen. Louis Goldstein, (D-Calvert), president of the Senate; House Speaker John C. Luber (D-Balto. 5th); Senate Majority Leader John Grayson Turnbull (D-Balto Co.); Senate Minority Leader Harry T. Phoebus (R-Somerset); and House Majority Leader A. Gordon Boone (Balto. Co.).

Deadline Due Friday For SS Benefits

Unless they file applications by January 31, many Cumberland area residents will lose Social Security benefits for 1957, according to James E. Robertson, district manager of the local office.

Robertson pointed out that there is some misunderstanding concerning how much a person may earn and still receive benefits. The test or measure to determine whether a person is eligible for benefits based on the earnings can be best explained if thought of in two separate parts.

First, a person whose earnings are $1,200 or less during the year is entitled to checks for all months of the year provided he meets all other requirements. However, if the person earns more than $1,200 he loses one month's benefit for each $80 or part of $80 he exceeds the $1,200. Therefore under this part of the test, if a person works in all months of the year and earns more than $2,080 there are no benefits payable; if he earns between $1,200 and $2,080 some benefits may be payable.

The second part of the test provides that a person will not lose a benefit for any month in which he does not earn more than $80 in wages or in which he does not render substantial services to his business if he is self-employed.

Therefore, under this part of the test, a person who earns more than $2,080 may still be eligible for benefits for some months of the year. In every application, both parts of the test are applied and the method which provides for the most benefits is used.

Any person who wants more information on how the law applies to his particular case should contact the nearest Social Security office. This includes any self-employed person who wants to know whether the services he renders are considered substantial under the law. The contact should be made before February 1958, if the person believes he may be eligible for benefits beginning with January 1957.

Davis Memorial Church To Expand Cemetery

Davis Memorial Methodist Church has acquired 4.67 acres of land on the southeast side of Uhl Highway, also known as the Oldtown Road, to expand its cemetery.

The deed was filed for record Tuesday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court. The property is on the southeast side of Uhl Highway about three miles southeast of Cumberland and in Election District 16.

About 11 years ago, the church bought about three acres for a cemetery and now is planning to expand. The property just purchased from Robert W. Young and Edith M. Young will be cleared and graded as soon as weather permits.

Polio March Returns Lag Behind 1957

A preliminary report of returns in Tuesday's Mothers March on Polio shows contributions are less than received in last year's campaign, but indications are that the appeal will not fall too far short of expectations.

Slightly more than $2,000 was collected by volunteers Tuesday, according to returns at the Allegany County League for Crippled Children. Last year's total was in excess of $3,100.

League spokesmen pointed out, however, that the campaign Tuesday was hampered by the lack of volunteer workers, and indicated that some streets and sections of the city will be canvassed at a later date. The late returns, it was stated, might make the final total well within reach of last year's $3,145.

Available returns, showing this year's collection and last year's total, are:

Corriganville, $77.55, $92.65; John Humbird School area, $86.50, $80.75; Potomac Park, $87, $105; North End, $333.87, $409.34; Union Grove, $49.46, $38.72; Homewood Addition, $5.48, $15.08; Gephart School area, $267.88, $386.01.

LaVale, $126.95, $420.29; midtown, $101.87, $131.15; Johnson Heights, $290.33, $424.65; Bowman's Addition, $61.90, $61; Virginia Avenue, $132.15, $375.65; Pennsylvania Avenue, $205.48, $205.48; West Side, $400, $187.79.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, chairman of the Mothers March, said the majority of the areas where donations are much below last year's collection are where entire streets were not canvassed. Many calls have been received from residents who were not contacted Tuesday, she continued, and plans will be made to canvass the streets within the next day or so.

Returns are still lagging from the outlying communities, Mrs. Nave said. The only final report has been turned in by Mrs. Chester Yates, who headed the appeal in the Vale Summit-Loartown region. Collections in that area Tuesday amounted to $60.45, which surpassed last year's total, Mrs. Nave said.

Assisting in totaling the returns last night at the Crippled Children's center were Mrs. Nave, Mrs. Dorothy Daychak, co-chairman of the Mothers March; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Cioni, and Thomas Cline, Charles Ralston and William Turbin, representatives of the Cumberland Auxiliary Police Force.

Court Fines Man $1,000

Lewis Yankelevitz, city, who was found guilty in Circuit Court last week on charges of embezzlement and larceny after trust, yesterday was fined $1,000 on the embezzlement and given suspended sentences on four other charges.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in sentencing Yankelevitz said: "You have lived here all your life and reared a family. Your trouble is not one in which you cooly and deliberately attempted to defraud but which arose from unfortunate business transactions."

Yankelevitz had been in the freezer and frozen food business and the embezzlement charge resulted from the resale of repossessed freezers and failure to turn over the receipts to the Second National Bank through which they had been financed.

Yankelevitz' defense was that the bank had about $5,000 in an account credited to him and the amount of money realized from the freezer sales totaled $3,100.

A member of the Ridgeley High Chapter of the National Honor Society, Miss Sachs is a cheerleader for the school and a member of the Future Homemakers Club. Selected on the basis of a written examination, her paper will be entered in competition for the selection of a West Virginia winner. Miss Sachs will be presented a pin during commencement exercises.

CD Casualty Unit To Meet Today

Members of Allegany County Civil Defense Casualty Clearing Station 1 are urged to attend a reactivation meeting today at 7:30 p. m. at Cumberland Savings Bank, Virginia Avenue.

At the same time, a Red Cross first aid course will be started. Approximately 25 nurses who have graduated from CD Nurses' Disaster Course will participate.

The first aid program is open to the public.

A movie on CD activities in the county also will be shown. Casualty Station 1 took part in the film. A. A. Robertson is administrative officer.

Toughest automotive tests of all time prove

LOW-COST PLYMOUTH LOOKS, RUNS LIKE NEW—AFTER 58,000 MILES

It's America's biggest automotive value—when you buy it . . . and when you trade

Dramatic braking test made before top automotive editors. The Plymouth on the right had just completed a 58,000-mile cross-country run. Other tests included acceleration, ride smoothness, gas economy, handling ease. The 58,000-mile veteran performed like new!

One of the Plymouths above is fresh from the assembly line. The other, a veteran of the toughest test run of all time: 58,000 continuous miles in 58 days. A thousand miles a day through 37 states.

We put both cars through the same exacting tests. Acceleration. Gas economy. Handling ease. Braking efficiency.

The results: the Plymouth that had driven 58,000 miles—the equivalent of 6 years on the road—could hardly be told from new. Like the new Plymouth, it zoomed from 0 to 40, 40 to 60 in a matter of seconds. In a 40-mph "panic" stop, it halted within 38 inches of the new car. And in the vital area of gas economy, careful tests proved that the 58,000-mile car delivered almost the exact same mileage as the new Plymouth. It rode with a smoothness and handled with an ease that astounded even veteran test drivers . . . men who had thought they'd seen everything.

What does it all prove? Just this: from the day you buy it, to the day you trade it in, your new Plymouth will take you to wherever you're going . . . faster, smoother, easier, safer. You get more value now . . . and you look forward to more dollars when you trade.

Why not see your Plymouth dealer now? He'll give you a fair appraisal of your present car. Then you'll see how easy it is to own America's biggest automotive value.

Plymouth stays young and proves it!

Gandhi's Death: Ten Years Later

That Abraham Lincoln, had he not been assassinated, would have seen his popularity inevitably tarnished in the emotion-packed decade after the Civil War is a tenet of many historians. Similarly, Gandhi's standing might well have fallen in India's difficult first decade of independence except for his assassination, at the age of 78, ten years ago today.

Gandhi had designated his leadership mantie for his lieutenant, Nehru. As a result, Nehru enjoyed almost universal support in India when he took over as its prime minister. Yet today he has been publicly hissed in areas where non-Hindi tongues are predominant, as around Bombay, for insisting that Hindi be made the accepted language there.

Gandhi's assassin was a super-nationalist Hindu who objected to the Mahatma (Great Prophet) preaching brotherhood between Hindu and Moslem. Gandhi had been opposed at first to the political partition of 1947 whereby Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan became separate states. At his death, he was urging a "voluntary reunion" of the two.

Today the animosities between India and Pakistan are intensified by their bitter quarrel over Kashmir. Indians almost to a man are proud of the dispatch of Indian troops to Kashmir by air that halted the invasion of Kashmir by Pakistani. Yet Gandhi was the outstanding modern-day advocate of non-violence to meet force.

Gandhi would probably have been appalled at the high military outlays by India today as it tries to ameliorate its dire poverty, also at the predominance given large-scale industrialization in India's hard-pressed second Five Year Plan. At his death he was trying to get the Congress party, now in control of the government, out of politics altogether. As it was, his assassination enshrined him more firmly than ever in the hearts of his people.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Our Changing Times

The new chemistry, electronics, nuclear physics, the reduction of time and space have changed our world. Never before in history have men seen so much happen in so short a time—so much that is fundamental. Many do not have either the knowledge or the understanding to grasp the vast social and economic changes that are the inevitable results of new commodities replacing traditional ones.

The dislocation of cotton, wool, silk, rubber, hemp, by fabrics made in the chemist's test tubes as a result of our greater knowledge of the molecule and its combinations is bound to influence the ways of life of millions of human beings.

Electronics and nuclear physics are only on the verge of being related to everyday life. One day, we shall not only hear the beep of the Sputnik but we shall use neither coal nor water nor petroleum for light, heat and power. One day, it will be possible to slip an atomic pellet into a device to run an automobile or a railroad train or a steel plant or anything. Or we may even be able to use an instrument that will catch and use the rays of the sun to store power as an oak stores life.

We are about to witness the total elimination of space, for if a Sputnik can orbit the earth, there are no limits to what may be done by power and speed and human imagination.

And to all this and more, the social order must respond if man is to survive these changes. For instance, we now know that war is devastating beyond any targets that may be set. That means that the instruments of war are such that their use cannot be limited to the intentions of those who use them. The fall-out of a hydrogen bomb does not take place on the day the bomb is shot. Radio-active strontium, a killer, may remain in the atmosphere for many years and may come down in drops of rain not upon the enemy but anywhere, even upon him who shot the bomb and it could so devastate his soil as to turn rich lands into a desert and it could destroy the bones of all animals of the field and of man.

Who dares to use such an instrument of war until a way is found to harness its destructiveness in time and space? And who dares to use many other devices of destruction which, once we discovered the secrets of the alchemists, are now limitless in their combinations by either fission or fusion?

In terms of the social order, the mechanical era has reached its apogee in automation which could, if carried forward logically, make it wholly unnecessary to employ human labor for most tasks of production and distribution. The first results we are beginning to witness in the proletarization of the middle class which is occurring in many parts of the world. In fact, in much of the world, the middle class has already disappeared; only the rulers exist and the ruled.

The elimination of the middle class alters the nature of our society altogether. It makes the manager of a plant an employe and the owner of its capital so remote from a business as to have no direct interest in it but to be concerned only with the net returns on an investment, the shares to be bought and sold without an emotion, for wherein does four per cent here differ from four per cent there?

In fact, so remote does ownership become that it is actually no difference as to whether an enterprise is privately-owned or publicly-owned, which explains why even in the United States there is no effective organ left to defend the capitalist system per se. Those who speak up for what they call "private enterprise" generally have foggy notions as to what they believe; they are only too often of the managerial class who own no enterprise themselves and would rather split the spoils with such a one as Walter Reuther than suffer the wrath of the stockholders should the four per cent not be forthcoming over a principle. Few are willing to die for a principle these days or even to risk losing a job.

It is a new era which needs to be studied closely as it moves along its destiny to fulfill.

That Alone Doesn't Make An Angel

Adenauer: A Realist Among Wishful Thinkers

By Joseph Alsop

BONN

In the era of the wishful-thinkers, Konrad Adenauer is the great surviving realist. Physically, he more and more resembles a powerful prehistoric creature, obstinately living on into an age that is not his own. His views on negotiating with the Soviets strike the same note as his appearance.

"As I made clear at the NATO meeting in Paris," he told me, "I believe in East-West negotiations. Some day there must be a world settlement, and it must be reached by negotiation. But I do not believe that the Western nations can negotiate successfully with the Soviets unless three essential conditions have been fully met."

Speaking with a grim finality that admitted no argument, raising a bony forefinger to emphasize each successive point, the Chancellor ticked off his three conditions. First, the "West must be absolutely united, and I do not think full Western unity has yet been restored."

Second, "The Western powers must be strong, for the Soviets only respect strength and hold weakness in perfect contempt."

And third and finally — and at this point in the list there was a flash of the amusement of a wise old man at the habitual follies of humanity — "There is no use negotiating for the mere sake of hearing yourself talk. We must first agree very clearly about the practical objectives of our negotiations. Obviously, the most important of all objectives is controlled disarmament.

"But controlled disarmament can only come by stages, and we must also agree among ourselves about the character of the stages. Furthermore, we must accept no false substitutes for real controlled disarmament, such as the so-called Rapacki Plan. The Plan would do no good, and it will do no good to talk about it, either."

It is always a curious experience to be received by Adenauer. His office is huge, airy, heavily humidified (to prevent bronchial attacks) and so full of flowers that it smells like a greenhouse. But this enormous, sunny space always seems to be entirely filled, as it were, by the single figure of the still-erect old man saying his say with mingled scorn and firmness. In the present instance, he had sat through a long, successful foreign affairs debate in the Bundestag until two in the morning. But an experience that would have exhausted many younger men only seemed to have made Adenauer rather more firm and considerably more scornful.

He was quite openly scornful, in particular, of the follies of the last few years that have led to the present difficult pass in the affairs of the Western Alliance. Again he ticked them off, one by one, beginning with "disarmament" which gave the Soviets the impression "that even the United States might be seeking appeasement — real music in the Kremlin's ears."

Incredible disregard of the intelligence concerning Soviet rocket developments; decreasing unity among the NATO nations; mistakes in last years disarmament negotiations — all the obvious items were listed. The overall result, remarked the Chancellor, was something very like general demoralization of the Western Allies. But now, he added, in the era of the post-Sputnik awakening, efforts were being made to correct the worst of these follies of omission and commission. "Therefore," he added, "we may again hope that the conditions of successful negotiation will eventually be fulfilled. But there is much yet to be done."

The first thing to be done, according to the Chancellor, is to compete the restoration of Western unity — and here he had much to say about many currently controversial points, such as the British attempt to reduce their ground forces in NATO. Unity was indeed the leitmotiv of the whole conversation, reappearing again and again as "the key requirement."

For instance, the idea of a bilateral dialogue between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. did not evoke much enthusiasm from the Chancellor. He admitted that Nikita Khrushchev's repeated invitations to such a dialogue might betoken a desire to talk serious business. "But it would disunite the West." All the easy ways out were ruthlessly rejected, in fact, and the absolute importance of Western unity, strength and clear-headedness was ruthlessly insisted upon.

"The West must put its own house in order," the Chancellor summed up. "Then and only then can we carry on these negotiations everyone desires with the Soviets, whose house is not altogether in order either."

Here, embedded in this sternly un-wishful analysis, is the grain of hope offered for the future. Great forces of change were more and more visibly at work in Soviet society. So if the Western nations maintained their common front and did not slacken their efforts, they would be rewarded in the end "with the true settlement, just to all, that we all desire."

And so it ended, this experience which was not only curious but also highly tonic; for it is highly tonic nowadays to hear a Western leader talking no nonsense, making no cheap promises, and insisting that great efforts are the price that must be paid for any great success.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Has the Sputnik cracked the atom of perpetual motion? We don't mean a two-tailed pickerel back-paddling at Niagara Falls.

Ike Newton nixed the possibility of attaining self-funding capillary tremors in space. But the Duke of Worcester almost got it with a badly balanced lamp on a grand piano.

There is perpetual motion in a lot of gimmicks there shouldn't be. Including a boy on Macy's escalator.

Back around the Spanish-American War a fellow named Keeley perfected the perpetual-pneumatic-pulsating vacuo motor. It ran night and day like spigots in a boarding house.

But the cops discovered its perpetuality was guaranteed by a string that ran down the leg of a table through a knothole in the floor.

In the room below Keeley's old lady turned a swindling crank. It's still a good idea if you can persuade your wife to be the engine.

Until we can attain drive-it-yourself Sputniks we'll depend on harnessing the tides, cows' tails and the rock-and-rollers.

The Sputnik is not perpetuality because it depends on internal combustion. All the monkeys are not out of the cage.

On Face-Lifting Surgery And Ski Accidents

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Face lifting turns back the clock but does not stop time from marching on. The operation makes the individual look younger for five to ten years but the wrinkles return and unless the procedure is repeated, the gain disappears.

The plastic surgeon gets his best results on the emotionally mature and physically healthy. They are the men and women with enough wrinkles to make surgery a practical and sensible procedure. Many are professional entertainers, salesmen, cosmeticians, and middle-aged widows who stand to benefit economically, socially, and physically from face lifts.

Poor results can be expected in those who blame all their troubles on a few well deserved wrinkles. They are emotionally disturbed or narcissistic perfectionists who want to look as they did in a retouched picture taken 20 years earlier. Failures also take place when the skin is studded with pitted scars.

"If you can afford to take the chance of being laid up for two or three months in midwinter, then ski." This advice was given in the Pfizer Spectrum by Dr. David R. Bryan, a ski-country doctor from Stowe, Vermont.

On a busy winter weekend he sees as many as 35 ski patients a day and 700 a season. These are the victims brought in by ski patrols; probably 10 times this number have accidents but manage to get back home without consulting him. To remain in the good graces of devotees of the sport, let me say that this is not a large percentage, considering the thousands who love the sport.

Dr. Bryan is all set for casualties of this nature. The ambulance backs up to his office and the rescue toboggan is slid through a rear door onto a transport device mounted on a modified fork-lift truck. The latter raises the toboggan to the level of a wheeled stretcher. The casuality is transferred with ease into one of the two operating rooms where he is warmed with a heating lamp and X-rayed.

According to the good doctor, the ankle is injured most often by intermediate skiers. Sprains are twice as common as fractures.. It is the novice who gets it in the knee.

FOOL ALLERGY

Mrs. J. writes: If a person is allergic to certain foods, can the doctor give shots so that the offending foods can be eaten without discomfort?

REPLY

Yes, but hyposensitization is of questionable value in food allergies, hence is seldom recommended. It is easier to avoid the allergenic foods or to eat only small amounts at infrequent intervals.

CONVULSIVE ATTACK

J. W. writes: What should you do if a person near you gets an epileptic fit?

REPLY

Ease his fall to the ground and stretch him out flat on the back. Place a clothespin, stick, or folded handkerchief between his teeth to prevent injury to the tongue. Do not restrain him but watch him carefully so his arms and legs are not injured when they thrash about.

MIKULICZ'S DISEASE

F.M.B. writes: What do you know about Mikulicz's disease?

REPLY

Not much because I've seen only one case so far. This rare disease involves the salivary and lacrimal glands, which become markedly swollen. Most victims are between the ages of 20 and 40 and enlargement may last for a few hours to several weeks. X-ray treatments are said to be of value.

TOMORROW: Research brings remedies.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Here are two wise bits of advice from Bernard Baruch, one of the most successful of all speculators:

1. If you are holding a lot of stocks, and the market slips into a persistent decline, "sell to the sleeping point." That is, sell enough stocks so that you no longer will be tossing about in bed worrying, no matter how far down the market may go. "When we are worried," counsels Baruch, "it is because our subconscious mind is trying to telegraph us some messages of warning."

2. It may be wise to periodically turn into cash most of your speculative holdings and virtually retire from the market for a while. This enables you to get a fresh, objective outlook on the general conditions. "No general," concludes Baruch, "keeps his troops fighting all the time, nor does he go into battle without some part of his forces held back in reserve."

Bill Cullen remarks that if you're not convinced smoking will make a woman's voice rasp, just try flicking some pipe ashes on her most expensive carpet.

Former FCC Chief Had Free Use Of Color TV Set For Six Months

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The alibi being advanced by Federal Communications Commissioners regarding their free use of expensive color TV sets is that the sets were merely on loan from the manufacturers so they could more effectively understand the color TV problem.

This was rather a late alibi for pleasant ex-Chairman George McConnaughey who has now retired from the FCC and gone back to practice law in Columbus, Ohio.

When my assistant, Lawrence Berlin, phoned McConnaughey in Columbus and asked him when he returned the color TV set he received from the National Broadcasting Company, McConnaughey replied:

"I didn't return it; I bought it."

"When did you make the purchase?"

"When I left the commission. After I left the Commission, I asked them if they would sell the set. They said 'yes', they would sell it for $200."

"But when did this occur?"

"I wanted to find out if it would work in Columbus," the ex-Chairman explained. "I brought it back with me but we had trouble getting it to work. It finally did, and I paid them $200."

For the fourth time Berlin asked when this happened.

"I paid them a couple of weeks ago—two, three, four—I've forgotten just what date. I didn't know whether it was a good buy or not. They were advertising new sets in Columbus for $300 and $400. I didn't know whether it was worth it to keep it or not, but I finally decided to keep it."

McConnaughey left the FCC on June 30, 1957, so it took him about six months to decide whether to buy the $200 color TV set.

Note—The acceptance of color TV sets is one of the lesser charges brought against FCC Commissioners in the secret memo prepared by Bernard Schwartz, counsel for the Moulder Committee. Congressmen who once yelled over hams and deep freezes have run away from this probe like jackrabbits in front of a plane at the Los Angeles Airport.

Indian Anniversary

This week is the eighth anniversary of Indian independence and today is the tenth anniversary of the death of Mahatma Gandhi.

It has been a long time since I spent a weekend at the Gandhi Asram on the muddy, slow-moving Sabarmati River where water buffalo came down to drink in the evening and I went down to bathe in the early morning. Strangely, what I remember most is how Gandhi's niece, then aged six, came into my room, rummaged through my knapsack, and squeezed tooth paste all over my bedding roll.

But what I should remember, of course, is the great progress India has made since then. At that time India was under British rule, the caste system and religious rivalry divided the country, Gandhi's weapon of the boycott was hurting, crowds were mowed down by British police in Bombay, Gandhi was locked up in a British jail.

Time passed. Another war engulfed the world, and India was the staging point from which Allied armies sought to penetrate up through the Burma Road to China. In 1944, I published the secret report of U. S. Ambassador William Phillips whom Roosevelt had sent to India to persuade India to give military support to the Allies. He recommended that if India was given the promise of independence it would throw thousands of soldiers into battle.

"It is time for the British to act," Phillips wrote Roosevelt. "This they can do by a solemn declaration from the King Emperor that India will achieve her independence at a specific date after the war. . . . I feel strongly, Mr. President, that in view of our military position in India, we should have a voice in these matters."

But when Roosevelt approached crusty old Winston Churchill, the Prime Minister pounded on the table and said:

"I have always been right about Hitler and everyone else in Europe. I'm also right about Indian policy. Any change in Indian policy now will mean a blood bath."

Watching Pearson

The Phillips report was highly confidential. I published it. Immediately my house was put under British surveillance and every possible source was watched. The British Government in London even sent an abrupt cable notifying Phillips that he would never be permitted to come back to India. I published that too. After that the surveillance got tighter.

However, a few months ago I met the son of Billy Phillips whose report I had published. His father has long since retired. His son was appointed by Eisenhower as Chairman of the Civil Service Commission, is now U. S. representative on the Economic and Social Council of the UN and is doing a fine job.

He told me that his father was always glad I published the report; that it hastened the day of Indian independence. Some people suspected I got the report from Ambassador Phillips. That was not true. Phillips, in turn, suspected it came from Sumner Welles, then Undersecretary of State. That was not true either. Where it came from is not important and will never be revealed.

What is important is the fact that India is now the biggest democratic nation in the world. And the words of Mahatma Gandhi are also important and should be remembered as Washington begins to consider aid for India:

"If India fails, Asia dies. It has aptly been called the nursery of many blended cultures in civilization. Let India be and remain the hope of all exploited races of the earth, whether in Asia, Africa, or any part of the world."

The Church Militant

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (INS) — The Kremlin leaders recently have cajoled and confused the West with a series of peace and trade overtures. But Communism's brutal war against religious peoples and institutions continues militantly. The principal target since the end of World War II and the seizure of the satellite states has been—and remains — the Roman Catholic Church.

Lino Gussoni, Milan-born priest now at work among the Italian-Americans in the Archdiocese of New York, has compiled, written and personally published the terrible box score of that bloody chapter in the enduring story of the Church.

Gussoni calls his work "The Silent Church," a title deriving from Pius XII's vigorous denunciation of totalitarian and anti-religious states in 1949. It is published by Veritas Publishing Co., Inc., 2112 Broadway, NYC. It is dedicated "to all those two, regardless of creed, have made the supreme sacrifice in their testimony to Christ."

The priest, who was urged by by the Pope to tell the story to Americans everywhere, is turning over all income from the book to the Refugee Relief Fund and the American Brotherhood of the Needy Overseas.

This is not a book that dwells on the indignities and types of death visited upon some incalculable number of priests and their parishioners behind the Iron Curtain. The focus is seldom brought down to a case history of a good man ticketed for death though all that is right and just is on his side. Yet the accumulative effect of its shocking and violent facts is like a whip across the heart. Gussoni does not loiter to encourage pity or indignation. He lets his facts do that.

The facts are irrefutable. They represent a distillation of tons of evidence spirited out of the slave states, brought out by refugees, or printed in the Communist court records of the countries concerned. The Communists themselves let slip such acts of courage, under trial, as these bits of testimony:

Yugoslavia's Cardinal Stepinac: "I will tell you what my only crime is. It is that of not falling on my knees before the demands of Communism which alone governs this country."

Hungary's Cardinal Mindszenty: "I rest solidly on my positions for God, for the Church and for the Fatherland, because this is the duty which history imposes on me in the service of my people. In the face of the sufferings of my nation, my fate is of no importance."

Czechoslovakia's Archbishop Beran: "Christianity and Communism can never be reconciled. He who would attempt such an enterprise would prove that he did not understand history. We will never betray either the state nor the people, but neither will we betray God or the Church."

The Church is virtually wiped out in the U. S. S. R., its 681 parishes 100 per cent destroyed, all but three of its 980 churches confiscated, along with 200 religious institutions and houses and 300 schools and charitable activities.

Elsewhere, the author details, it is either on the rack or being slowly asphyxiated by suppressive law, outright expropriation of property or confiscatory taxes. Communist attempts to start a "State Catholic" religion have been successfully fought everywhere behind the Iron Curtain.

The stroke of a pen nationalized and communized 3,163 schools in Hungary and their 600,000 students . . . Msgr. George Volaj, Albanian Bishop of Sappa, who defended people of all religious sects who ran afoul of the Hoxua Government, was arrested and shot without trial . . . Communist mobs hooted Archbishop Beran out of his pulpit in the Cathedral at Prague . . . Nuns were marched off to concentration camps under machineguns from many Czech cities and many have never been heard from again . . . As many as four priests at a time lined up and shot in Albania . . .

Yet it lives. The Kremlin should be reminded of the massacre at Nagasaki in 1638 of several thousand Japanese converts to Christianity. The Shogun who ordered the slayings announced "Christianity in Japan is now suppressed." Two hundred and 20 years later, when Japan was opened to the West, the first missionaries found the hardy faith still flowering. Fr. Gussoni's book is testament to the fact that Communism may fail as did the Shogun.

You're Telling Me!

New Zealand geologists have found a vein of coal near the South Pole. Good — that place could stand a cheerful fire or two.

Heat waves reported in Australia and South America. Somehow, such news items leave us cold—in fact, colder than ever.

Both the center and the northeast craters of Mount Etna erupt at the same time. This is definitely the wrong kind of doubleheader.

Century Club Dance To Be Feb. 12; Favors Library

The date for a dance was selected and action was taken on the county library project and national Community Achievement contest, at the meeting of the LaVale Century Club, held Tuesday evening in LaVale Methodist Church. Mrs. F. V. Cozad presided.

It was decided to hold the third annual dance for the benefit of the LaVale library maintenance fund February 12. It will be at the Cumberland Country Club with music by Peck Mills from 10 until 2.

A petition was sent to the county commissioners asking them "to get state and federal aid for Allegany County, by appropriating $2 for every $10,000 assessable property in Allegany County," for a county library.

To compete for the 1958 prize in the national Community Achievement contest, sponsored by Sears Roebuck, the club will send in its scrapbook concerning the remodeling of the old police barracks into a LaVale library. It was pointed out that it is now valued at $7,000. The club paid $500 for it and the remainder was donated by the community citizens through cash or time.

Mrs. William Barger announced the new choral group of the club has been organized and will meet the first and fourth Monday of each month, at LaVale Methodist Church, at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Kenneth Wolfe is pianist and Mrs. Alan Macy will be director. She also introduced two new members, Mrs. George Reuschlein and Mrs. Louis Mould.

Mrs. Paul Stair, program chairman, introduced William Barger, director of Civil Defense, who spoke on "Civil Defense or Common Sense." He also showed movies taken in Allegany County. The club collect was read by Mrs. Kenneth Morgan. Concluding the program, refreshments were served. Hostesses were Mrs. C. N. Sanner, Mrs. William Douglas, Mrs. Richard Schwab, Mrs. Richard Johnson and Mrs. G. W. Duvall. The next meeting will be February 25.

St. Christopher's Circle of Emmanuel Episcopal Church will hold a luncheon and card party at noon today in the parish house.

(End of First Half)

The Loyal Order of Moose wrapped up the first half title in the City Basketball League by downing the Knights of Columbus team, 65-47, last night in the closing doubleheader of the circuit on the Carver gym floor. The Old Exports defeated Chaney's Transportation, 98-81, in the other half of the twin bill.

The Moose jumped out in front in the first half, building up a 28-19 lead, but the Knights rebounded to deadlock the score at 28-all.

Norman Geatz' goal broke the tie for the Moose and a foul shot by Jim Clingan and a three-point play by George McGregor put the winners back in front to stay. From then on the champs increased their margin to win going away.

High man for the Moose was Fritz Showers, who once more took over the lead in the league's scoring race from Don Moran, with 27 points. Showers now has 243 points to the idle Moran's 240. Marty Mullaney had 14 for the Knights.

In the Export-Chaney battle Clay Smith cemented his hold on third place in the scoring race with 27 points to boost his mark to 222 for the Old Export team. Bob Pence chipped in with 22 markers for the winner who trailed throughout the first half but rallied to gain the lead in the third quarter, 65-58. Pence now has 195 points for fourth place in th scoring battle.

Top man for Chaney's was Ells Lambert with 28 points. The lineups:

Roy Campanella Shows Marked Improvement

Feeling Returns To Chest, Arms, Hands

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Roy Campanella, Dodger catcher seriously injured in an automobile accident Tuesday morning, showed marked improvement today as feeling returned to his hand, arms and upper part of his chest.

The 215-pound, 36-year-old catcher had been paralyzed from his chest down since his car hit a telephone pole and turned over on a winding road not far from his home.

A late afternoon report from the hospital said Campy's legs still remained paralyzed but that he had begun to show strength and movement in his hands and that "there was f e e l i n g present throughout his hands, arms and upper chest."

He was partaking of fluids through the mouth but was being fed intravenously.

An earlier bulletin from the hospital had said "Roy is considerably better. He has sensation in both arms and upper chest but the paralysis is unchanged and he still is on the critical list."

Lee Scott, Dodgers' road secretary, said he didn't expect another statement from the hospital until tomorrow morning.

The baseball star's wife, Ruthe, spent 2½ hours at his bedside today but Campy slept throughout her visit.

Two of the bones in Campanella's neck were broken when his car hit the telephone pole after skidding on a curve. Rescuers had to use crowbars to get him out of the car. Surgeons said had the injury been an inch higher it would have killed Campanella.

While doctors termed the overall picture encouraging, they said it may be months—or conceivably years—before Campanella will be completely normal again. They are hopeful the paralysis will eventually disappear.

In any event the negro catcher's active baseball career appeared at an end. He is 36, a relatively advanced age in sports, and even with a quick recovery would have little time left to regain his playing skill.

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement at the death of our beloved wife and daughter, Mrs. Temperence V. Haller. Especially do we thank Rev. J. F. Sammel, the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and all others who in any way assisted.
Husband: Mr. Ellis Haller
Mother: Mrs. Ida M. Lindsay

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Mr. Julian Laurent, who passed away 7 years ago today, January 30, 1951.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there
Beyond the sunset he has gone,
Still memories linger on.
Sadly missed by: Sons, Daughters, Grandchildren and Great-grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear father and mother, Richard Scarlett, who passed away January 30th, 1936, and Clara Scarlett who passed away February 2, 1938.
Loving memories never die
As the days come and years roll by.
In our hearts a memory is kept
Of the ones we loved and will never forget.
Loving Children

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Recent comment by a European prompts J.R.P. to urge improvement of the typical walk of American women.

Listen While You Walk

A recent visitor from Europe was widely quoted in the press about his views on American women. I'm afraid his complimentary remarks impressed me less than the one which was startlingly uncomplimentary. He spoke of their "thunderous walk."

Looks as if we should get down to cases oftener on the subject of walking gracefully. Thunderous footsteps are a dead give-away of walk that's far from graceful. Only soft sounds go with beauty.

You may not be able to see your walking faults, but you can hear them. Listen while you walk. A clomping sound indicates that worst-of-all fault — knees locked stiff when they should flex. Legs must swing freely and rhythmically from the hip joints, but with little or no movement of the hips.

Let's review directions for the glide-walk that makes walking-movement perfection:

Stand in your best posture, tilting the pelvis upward and pulling tall but with the knees relaxed. Lift the right leg slightly off the floor with a ball-bearing action in the thigh joint, and move the foot forward with toes pointing ahead. Make certain that the knee is flexed and that the major movement flows from the hips.

Now place the heel lightly on the floor, one foot-length pace ahead. As the heel touches the floor, roll your weight through the dead center of your foot until it rests on the ball of your foot, then grip the floor with your toes. Follow with the other foot in the same way and continue to move the feet on two parallel tracks about two inches apart, making sure that the transfer of weight from foot to foot is even and soundless.

TOMORROW: Be The Artist.

"DANCE THROUGH A WEEK TO BEAUTY"—Created EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column, dance steps anyone can do. They bring increased grace and reduced measurements. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c (in coin) for a copy of DANCE THROUGH A WEEK TO BEAUTY.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29 (INS)—If you read the Gerald Green book "The Last Angry Man," which tells of the futile life of a fine man in a hectic age, you'll know that Producer Fred Kohlmar had his work cut out when he started preparing it for the screen.

He has it pretty well licked now, and when the cameras start rolling May 1, Glenn Ford will have the role of Thrasher, the advertising man.

Harry Cohn has given Danny Mann the directorial job, and it has been decided to film the locations in Brooklyn where the story is laid.

Now that Charlton Heston is set for "Ben Hur," the other members of the cast are being rapidly rounded up. Maria Schell has been offered the top femme role and out MGM way they are waiting for her decision.

Director Willy Wyler paid the fair Maria a visit in Europe to ask her when she will be free.

I'd be inclined to think she'll accept the "Ben Hur" offer because her last picture, "The Brothers Karamazov,' was a happy experience for her and MGM.

At the luncheon given to introduce 18-year-old Millie Perkins, who will play Anne Frank in "The Diary of Annie Frank" for 20th, the original diary of the little Jewish girl who met death at the hands of the Nazis was on display.

Millie, a former model for 'teenage magazines, won the role out of 10,224 applicants. She looks exactly as you might imagine Anne, who wrote the original diary. She is five feet two, has large hazel eyes and straight black hair.

A story written by Anne in which she imagined herself in Hollywood as a guest of Priscilla Lane, and how she met all the big stars including Madge Bellamy, was read by George Stevens, Jr. George Stevens, Sr., obtained this from Otto Frank, who is still alive in Amsterdam.

Ernest Hemingway knows what the fans think of "Old Man and the Sea" before most of us do. Leland Hayward sent him the cards received from the first sneak preview.

"Papa" told Al Horwitz, who is in Cuba, that he had never seen "A Farewell to Arms" as was reported, and had never discussed it. He did read, however, the reviews sent him from New York.

Al and Claire are vacationing for two weeks in Havana, and Hemingway also told them that he has just finished a short story and is editing a new novel.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Pola Negri is at the Eden Roc in Miami writing her memoirs. Boy, has she a story to tell!

Rock Hudson gets the Photoplay magazine award this year so he's postponing his trip until after Feb. 9.

Raymond Massey will be a grandpop for the second time when his eldest son, Geoffrey, and Mrs. Geoffrey greet the stork again in March.

The death of Jim Simolella, Hollywood's first important hairdresser, brought back memories. Jean Harlow, Mary Pickford, Claudette Colbert and many, many other of us were his patrons.

"Hollywood has moved to Havana," Frances Bergen writes. She says the place is jumping, with Alfred Hitchcock, the Oscar Hammersteins, Ann and Henry Ford, young Sen. Kennedy and his pretty wife. "And," adds Frances, "even Billy Graham is here."- She and Edgar are off to Haiti for a holiday.

Danny (Danny's Hideaway) Stradella arrives to discuss plans for a coast hideaway. His New York cafe has been in existence 13 years.

Thursday Carol Channing opens in her native San Francisco at the Fairmont Hotel, and on her birthday.

Alan Carney, who played three seasons in "Fanny,' will be starred in the Palm Springs Playhouse presentation of "The Loud Red Patrick."

Thats all today. See you tomorrow.

Gandhi's Death: Ten Years Later

That Abraham Lincoln, had he not been assassinated, would have seen his popularity inevitably tarnished in the emotion-packed decade after the Civil War is a tenet of many historians. Similarly, Gandhi's standing might well have fallen in India's difficult first decade of independence except for his assassination, at the age of 78, ten years ago today.

Gandhi had designated his leadership mantle for his lieutenant, Nehru. As a result, Nehru enjoyed almost universal support in India when he took over as its prime minister. Yet today he has been publicly hissed in areas where non-Hindi tongues are predominant, as around Bombay, for insisting that Hindi be made the accepted language there.

Gandhi's assassin was a super-nationalist Hindu who objected to the Mahatma (Great Prophet) preaching brotherhood between Hindu and Moslem. Gandhi had been opposed at first to the political partition of 1947 whereby Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan became separate states. At his death, he was urging a "voluntary reunion" of the two.

Today the animosities between India and Pakistan are intensified by their bitter quarrel over Kashmir. Indians almost to a man are proud of the dispatch of Indian troops to Kashmir by air that halted the invasion of Kashmir by Pakistani. Yet Gandhi was the outstanding modern-day advocate of non-violence to meet force.

Gandhi would probably have been appalled at the high military outlays by India today as it tries to ameliorate its dire poverty, also at the predominance given large-scale industrialization in India's hard-pressed second Five Year Plan. At his death he was trying to get the Congress party, now in control of the government, out of politics altogether. As it was, his assassination enshrined him more firmly than ever in the hearts of his people.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Our Changing Times

The new chemistry, electronics, nuclear physics, the reduction of time and space have changed our world. Never before in history have men seen so much happen in so short a time—so much that is fundamental. Many do not have either the knowledge or the understanding to grasp the vast social and economic changes that are the inevitable results of new commodities replacing traditional ones.

The dislocation of cotton, wool, silk, rubber, hemp, by fabrics made in the chemist's test tubes as a result of our greater knowledge of the molecule and its combinations is bound to influence the ways of life of millions of human beings.

Electronics and nuclear physics are only on the verge of being related to everyday life. One day, we shall not only hear the beep of the Sputnik but we shall use neither coal nor water nor petroleum for light, heat and power. One day, it will be possible to slip an atomic pellet into a device to run an automobile or a railroad train or a steel plant or anything. Or we may even be able to use an instrument that will catch and use the rays of the sun to store power as an oak stores life.

We are about to witness the total elimination of space, for if a Sputnik can orbit the earth, there are no limits to what may be done by power and speed and human imagination.

And to all this and more, the social order must respond if man is to survive these changes. For instance, we now know that war is devastating beyond any targets that may be set. That means that the instruments of war are such that their use cannot be limited to the intentions of those who use them. The fall-out of a hydrogen bomb does not take place on the day the bomb is shot. Radio-active strontium, a killer, may remain in the atmosphere for many years and may come down in drops of rain not upon the enemy but anywhere, even upon him who shot the bomb and it could so devastate his soil as to turn rich lands into a desert and it could destroy the bones of all animals of the field and of man.

Who dares to use such an instrument of war until a way is found to harness its destructiveness in time and space? And who dares to use many other devices of destruction which, once we discovered the secrets of the alchemists, are now limitless in their combinations by either fission or fusion?

In terms of the social order, the mechanical era has reached its apogee in automation which could, if carried forward logically, make it wholly unnecessary to employ human labor for most tasks of production and distribution. The first results we are beginning to witness in the proletarization of the middle class which is occurring in many parts of the world. In fact, in much of the world, the middle class has already disappeared; only the rulers exist and the ruled.

The elimination of the middle class alters the nature of our society altogether. It makes the manager of a plant an employe and the owner of its capital so remote from a business as to have no direct interest in it but to be concerned only with the net returns on an investment, the shares to be bought and sold without an emotion, for wherein does four per cent here differ from four per cent there?

In fact, so remote does ownership become that it is actually no difference as to whether an enterprise is privately-owned or publicly-owned, which explains why even in the United States there is no effective organ left to defend the capitalist system per se. Those who speak up for what they call "private enterprise" generally have foggy notions as to what they believe; they are only too often of the managerial class who own no enterprise themselves and would rather split the spoils with such a one as Walter Reuther than suffer the wrath of the stockholders should the four per cent not be forthcoming over a principle. Few are willing to die for a principle these days or even to risk losing a job.

It is a new era which needs to be studied closely as it moves along its destiny to fulfill.

That Alone Doesn't Make An Angel

Former FCC Chief Had Free Use Of Color TV Set For Six Months

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The alibi being advanced by Federal Communications Commissioners regarding their free use of expensive color TV sets is that the sets were merely on loan from the manufacturers so they could more effectively understand the color TV problem.

This was rather a late alibi for pleasant ex-Chairman George McConnaughey who has now retired from the FCC and gone back to practice law in Columbus, Ohio.

When my assistant, Lawrence Berlin, phoned McConnaughey in Columbus and asked him when he returned the color TV set he received from the National Broadcasting Company, McConnaughey replied:

"I didn't return it; I bought it."

"When did you make the purchase?"

"When I left the commission. After I left the Commission, I asked them if they would sell the set. They said 'yes', they would sell it for $200."

"But when did this occur?"

"I wanted to find out if it would work in Columbus," the ex-Chairman explained. "I brought it back with me but we had trouble getting it to work. It finally did, and I paid them $200."

For the fourth time Berlin asked when this happened.

"I paid them a couple of weeks ago—two, three, four—I've forgotten just what date. I didn't know whether it was a good buy or not. They were advertising new sets in Columbus for $300 and $400. I didn't know whether it was worth it to keep it or not, but I finally decided to keep it."

McConnaughey left the FCC on June 30, 1957, so it took him about six months to decide whether to buy the $200 color TV set.

Note—The acceptance of color TV sets is one of the lesser charges brought against FCC Commissioners in the secret memo prepared by Bernard Schwartz, counsel for the Moulder Committee. Congressmen who once yelled over hams and deep freezes have run away from this probe like jackrabbits in front of a plane at the Los Angeles Airport.

Indian Anniversary

This week is the eighth anniversary of Indian independence and today is the tenth anniversary of the death of Mahatma Gandhi.

It has been a long time since I spent a weekend at the Gandhi Asram on the muddy, slow-moving Sabarmati River where water buffalo came down to drink in the evening and I went down to bathe in the early morning. Strangely, what I remember most is how Gandhi's niece, then aged six, came into my room, rummaged through my knapsack, and squeezed tooth paste all over my bedding roll.

But what I should remember, of course, is the great progress India has made since then. At that time India was under British rule, the caste system and religious rivalry divided the country, Gandhi's weapon of the boycott was hurting, crowds were mowed down by British police in Bombay, Gandhi was locked up in a British jail.

Time passed. Another war engulfed the world, and India was the staging point from which Allied armies sought to penetrate up through the Burma Road to China. In 1944, I published the secret report of U. S. Ambassador William Phillips whom Roosevelt had sent to India to persuade India to give military support to the Allies. He recommended that if India was given the promise of independence it would throw thousands of soldiers into battle.

"It is time for the British to act," Phillips wrote Roosevelt. "This they can do by a solemn declaration from the King Emperor that India will achieve her independence at a specific date after the war. . . . I feel strongly, Mr. President, that in view of our military position in India, we should have a voice in these matters."

But when Roosevelt approached crusty old Winston Churchill, the Prime Minister pounded on the table and said:

"I have always been right about Hitler and everyone else in Europe. I'm also right about Indian policy. Any change in Indian policy now will mean a blood bath."

Watching Pearson

The Phillips report was highly confidential. I published it. Immediately my house was put under British surveillance and every possible source was watched. The British Government in London even sent an abrupt cable notifying Phillips that he would never be permitted to come back to India. I published that too. After that the surveillance got tighter.

However, a few months ago I met the son of Billy Phillips whose report I had published. His father has long since retired. His son was appointed by Eisenhower as Chairman of the Civil Service Commission, is now U. S. representative on the Economic and Social Council of the UN and is doing a fine job.

He told me that his father was always glad I published the report; that it hastened the day of Indian independence. Some people suspected I got the report from Ambassador Phillips. That was not true. Phillips, in turn, suspected it came from Sumner Welles, then Undersecretary of State. That was not true either. Where it came from is not important and will never be revealed.

What is important is the fact that India is now the biggest democratic nation in the world. And the words of Mahatma Gandhi are also important and should be remembered as Washington begins to consider aid for India:

"If India fails, Asia dies. It has aptly been called the nursery of many blended cultures in civilization. Let India be and remain the hope of all exploited races of the earth, whether in Asia, Africa, or any part of the world."

Adenauer: A Realist Among Wishful Thinkers

By Joseph Alsop

BONN

In the era of the wishful-thinkers, Konrad Adenauer is the great surviving realist. Physically, he more and more resembles a powerful prehistoric creature, obstinately living on into an age that is not his own. His views on negotiating with the Soviets strike the same note as his appearance.

"As I made clear at the NATO meeting in Paris," he told me, "I believe in East-West negotiations. Some day there must be a world settlement, and it must be reached by negotiation. But I do not believe that the Western nations can negotiate successfully with the Soviets unless three essential conditions have been fully met."

Speaking with a grim finality that admitted no argument, raising a bony forefinger to emphasize each successive point, the Chancellor ticked off his three conditions. First, the "West must be absolutely united, and I do not think full Western unity has yet been restored."

Second, "The Western powers must be strong, for the Soviets only respect strength and hold weakness in perfect contempt."

And third and finally — and at this point in the list there was a flash of the amusement of a wise old man at the habitual follies of humanity — "There is no use negotiating for the mere sake of hearing yourself talk. We must first agree very clearly about the practical objectives of our negotiations. Obviously, the most important of all objectives is controlled disarmament.

"But controlled disarmament can only come by stages, and we must also agree among ourselves about the character of the stages. Furthermore, we must accept no false substitutes for real controlled disarmament, such as the so-called Rapacki Plan. The Plan would do no good, and it will do no good to talk about it, either."

It is always a curious experience to be received by Adenauer. His office is huge, airy, heavily humidified (to prevent bronchial attacks) and so full of flowers that it smells like a greenhouse. But this enormous, sunny space always seems to be entirely filled, as it were, by the single figure of the still-erect old man saying his say with mingled scorn and firmness. In the present instance, he had sat through a long, successful foreign affairs debate in the Bundestag until two in the morning. But an experience that would have exhausted many younger men only seemed to have made Adenauer rather more firm and considerably more scornful.

He was quite openly scornful, in particular, of the follies of the last few years that have led to the present difficult pass in the affairs of the Western Alliance. Again he ticked them off, one by one, beginning with "disarmament" which gave the Soviets the impression "that even the United States might be seeking appeasement — real music in the Kremlin's ears."

Incredible disregard of the intelligence concerning Soviet rocket developments; decreasing unity among the NATO nations; mistakes in last years disarmament negotiations — all the obvious items were listed. The overall result, remarked the Chancellor, was something very like general demoralization of the Western Allies. But now, he added, in the era of the post-Sputnik awakening, efforts were being made to correct the worst of these follies of omission and commission. "Therefore," he added, "we may again hope that the conditions of successful negotiation will eventually be fulfilled. But there is much yet to be done."

The first thing to be done, according to the Chancellor, is to compete the restoration of Western unity — and here he had much to say about many currently controversial points, such as the British attempt to reduce their ground forces in NATO. Unity was indeed the leitmotiv of the whole conversation, reappearing again and again as "the key requirement."

For instance, the idea of a bilateral dialogue between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. did not evoke much enthusiasm from the Chancellor. He admitted that Nikita Khrushchev's repeated invitations to such a dialogue might betoken a desire to talk serious business. "But it would disunite the West." All the easy ways out were ruthlessly rejected, in fact, and the absolute importance of Western unity, strength and clear-headedness was ruthlessly insisted upon.

"The West must put its own house in order," the Chancellor summed up. "Then and only then can we carry on these negotiations everyone desires with the Soviets, whose house is not altogether in order either."

Here, embedded in this sternly un-wishful analysis, is the grain of hope offered for the future. Great forces of change were more and more visibly at work in Soviet society. So if the Western nations maintained their common front and did not slacken their efforts, they would be rewarded in the end "with the true settlement, just to all, that we all desire."

And so it ended, this experience which was not only curious but also highly tonic; for it is highly tonic nowadays to hear a Western leader talking no nonsense, making no cheap promises, and insisting that great efforts are the price that must be paid for any great success.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Has the Sputnik cracked the atom of perpetual motion? We don't mean a two-tailed pickerel back-paddling at Niagara Falls.

Ike Newton nixed the possibility of attaining self-funding capillary tremors in space. But the Duke of Worcester almost got it with a badly balanced lamp on a grand piano.

There is perpetual motion in a lot of gimmicks there shouldn't be. Including a boy on Macy's escalator.

Back around the Spanish-American War a fellow named Keeley perfected the perpetual-pneumatic-pulsating vacuo motor. It ran night and day like spigots in a boarding house.

But the cops discovered its perpetuality was guaranteed by a string that ran down the leg of a table through a knothole in the floor.

In the room below Keeley's old lady turned a swindling crank. It's still a good idea if you can persuade your wife to be the engine.

Until we can attain drive-it-yourself Sputniks we'll depend on harnessing the tides, cows' tails and the rock-and-rollers.

The Sputnik is not perpetuality because it depends on internal combustion. All the monkeys are not out of the cage.

On Face-Lifting Surgery And Ski Accidents

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Face lifting turns back the clock but does not stop time from marching on. The operation makes the individual look younger for five to ten years but the wrinkles return and unless the procedure is repeated, the gain disappears.

The plastic surgeon gets his best results on the emotionally mature and physically healthy. They are the men and women with enough wrinkles to make surgery a practical and sensible procedure. Many are professional entertainers, salesmen, cosmeticians, and middle-aged widows who stand to benefit economically, socially, and physically from face lifts.

Poor results can be expected in those who blame all their troubles on a few well deserved wrinkles. They are emotionally disturbed or narcissistic perfectionists who want to look as they did in a retouched picture taken 20 years earlier. Failures also take place when the skin is studded with pitted scars.

"If you can afford to take the chance of being laid up for two or three months in midwinter, then ski." This advice was given in the Pfizer Spectrum by Dr. David R. Bryan, a ski-country doctor from Stowe, Vermont.

On a busy winter weekend he sees as many as 35 ski patients a day and 700 a season. These are the victims brought in by ski patrols; probably 10 times this number have accidents but manage to get back home without consulting him. To remain in the good graces of devotees of the sport, let me say that this is not a large percentage, considering the thousands who love the sport.

Dr. Bryan is all set for casualties of this nature. The ambulance backs up to his office and the rescue toboggan is slid through a rear door onto a transport device mounted on a modified fork-lift truck. The latter raises the toboggan to the level of a wheeled stretcher. The casuality is transferred with ease into one of the two operating rooms where he is warmed with a heating lamp and X-rayed.

According to the good doctor, the ankle is injured most often by intermediate skiers. Sprains are twice as common as fractures.. It is the novice who gets it in the knee.

FOOL ALLERGY

Mrs. J. writes: If a person is allergic to certain foods, can the doctor give shots so that the offending foods can be eaten without discomfort?

REPLY

Yes, but hyposensitization is of questionable value in food allergies, hence is seldom recommended. It is easier to avoid the allergenic foods or to eat only small amounts at infrequent intervals.

CONVULSIVE ATTACK

J. W. writes: What should you do if a person near you gets an epileptic fit?

REPLY

Ease his fall to the ground and stretch him out flat on the back. Place a clothespin, stick, or folded handkerchief between his teeth to prevent injury to the tongue. Do not restrain him but watch him carefully so his arms and legs are not injured when they thrash about.

MIKULICZ'S DISEASE

F.M.B. writes: What do you know about Mikulicz's disease?

REPLY

Not much because I've seen only one case so far. This rare disease involves the salivary and lacrimal glands, which become markedly swollen. Most victims are between the ages of 20 and 40 and enlargement may last for a few hours to several weeks. X-ray treatments are said to be of value.

TOMORROW: Research brings remedies.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Here are two wise bits of advice from Bernard Baruch, one of the most successful of all speculators:

1. If you are holding a lot of stocks, and the market slips into a persistent decline, "sell to the sleeping point." That is, sell enough stocks so that you no longer will be tossing about in bed worrying, no matter how far down the market may go. "When we are worried," counsels Baruch, "it is because our subconscious mind is trying to telegraph us some messages of warning."

2. It may be wise to periodically turn into cash most of your speculative holdings and virtually retire from the market for a while. This enables you to get a fresh, objective outlook on the general conditions. "No general," concludes Baruch, "keeps his troops fighting all the time, nor does he go into battle without some part of his forces held back in reserve."

Bill Cullen remarks that if you're not convinced smoking will make a woman's voice rasp, just try flicking some pipe ashes on her most expensive carpet.

The Church Militant

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (INS) — The Kremlin leaders recently have cajoled and confused the West with a series of peace and trade overtures. But Communism's brutal war against religious peoples and institutions continues militantly. The principal target since the end of World War II and the seizure of the satellite states has been—and remains — the Roman Catholic Church.

Lino Gussoni, Milan-born priest now at work among the Italian-Americans in the Archdiocese of New York, has compiled, written and personally published the terrible box score of that bloody chapter in the enduring story of the Church.

Gussoni calls his work "The Silent Church," a title deriving from Pius XII's vigorous denunciation of totalitarian and anti-religious states in 1949. It is published by Veritas Publishing Co., Inc., 2112 Broadway, NYC. It is dedicated "to all those two, regardless of creed, have made the supreme sacrifice in their testimony to Christ."

The priest, who was urged by by the Pope to tell the story to Americans everywhere, is turning over all income from the book to the Refugee Relief Fund and the American Brotherhood of the Needy Overseas.

This is not a book that dwells on the indignities and types of death visited upon some incalculable number of priests and their parishioners behind the Iron Curtain. The focus is seldom brought down to a case history of a good man ticketed for death though all that is right and just is on his side. Yet the accumulative effect of its shocking and violent facts is like a whip across the heart. Gussoni does not loiter to encourage pity or indignation. He lets his facts do that.

The facts are irrefutable. They represent a distillation of tons of evidence spirited out of the slave states, brought out by refugees, or printed in the Communist court records of the countries concerned. The Communists themselves let slip such acts of courage, under trial, as these bits of testimony:

Yugoslavia's Cardinal Stepinac: "I will tell you what my only crime is. It is that of not falling on my knees before the demands of Communism which alone governs this country."

Hungary's Cardinal Mindszenty: "I rest solidly on my positions for God, for the Church and for the Fatherland, because this is the duty which history imposes on me in the service of my people. In the face of the sufferings of my nation, my fate is of no importance."

Czechoslovakia's Archbishop Beran: "Christianity and Communism can never be reconciled. He who would attempt such an enterprise would prove that he did not understand history. We will never betray either the state nor the people, but neither will we betray God or the Church."

The Church is virtually wiped out in the U. S. S. R., its 681 parishes 100 per cent destroyed, all but three of its 980 churches confiscated, along with 200 religious institutions and houses and 300 schools and charitable activities.

Elsewhere, the author details, it is either on the rack or being slowly asphyxiated by suppressive law, outright expropriation of property or confiscatory taxes. Communist attempts to start a "State Catholic" religion have been successfully fought everywhere behind the Iron Curtain.

The stroke of a pen nationalized and communized 3,163 schools in Hungary and their 600,000 students . . . Msgr. George Volaj, Albanian Bishop of Sappa, who defended people of all religious sects who ran afoul of the Hoxua Government, was arrested and shot without trial . . . Communist mobs hooted Archbishop Beran out of his pulpit in the Cathedral at Prague . . . Nuns were marched off to concentration camps under machineguns from many Czech cities and many have never been heard from again . . . As many as four priests at a time lined up and shot in Albania . . .

Yet it lives. The Kremlin should be reminded of the massacre at Nagasaki in 1638 of several thousand Japanese converts to Christianity. The Shogun who ordered the slayings announced "Christianity in Japan is now suppressed." Two hundred and 20 years later, when Japan was opened to the West, the first missionaries found the hardy faith still flowering. Fr. Gussoni's book is testament to the fact that Communism may fail as did the Shogun.

FSTC Asking Bids On New Lab School

Sealed Proposals Due February 18

FROSTBURG — Bids are being asked for a new laboratory school building and a dining hall at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The State Department of Public Improvements said the sealed bids will be opened February 18 at 2 p. m. in the department's Baltimore office.

The work on the laboratory school is being advertised for the first time, but this is the second time for the dining hall.

First Bids Too High

The previous bids on the dining hall were rejected by the state department when they were opened early last month. They were termed too high for the amount of money available.

The new laboratory school will be a one-story brick structure located just off Midlothian Road and in the rear area of Compton Hall, the gym-auditorium.

It will be concrete block faced with brick and in the same architectural design as the other new buildings on the campus.

There will be nine classrooms and administrative offices. There will be another large multi-purpose room that will be able to be used for a cafeteria or for meetings.

To Ask More Money

The new college dining hall will be about the same size as Lowndes Hall, the library-administrative building, and will be built on the site of the present tennis courts.

The basement will contain storage and refrigeration facilities for the kitchen, and also have rooms for college organizations.

The main or first floor will have a lobby, dining hall large enough to handle 300 students at one time, and the kitchen.

R. Bowen Hardesty, college president, also reported the State Board of Education will ask the 1958 session of the General Assembly for enough funds to purchase the homes on Park Avenue from Compton Hall to Midlothian Road.

W.Va. Reports Progress In Oak Wilt Fight

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — Commissioner of Agriculture John T. Johnson said this week that the State Department of Agriculture cooperating with other interested agencies completed the first statewide survey during 1957, after five years of effort, to locate trees infected with Oak Wilt disease.

In the past, survey efforts have been hampered by limited funds. However, last year, the state legislature made additional funds available and the federal government helped share expenses.

Aerial and ground survey crews found 889 diseased trees which was 301 less than the 1190 found in 1956. F. Waldo Craig, director of Plant Pest Control Division said that the decrease in the number of trees found did not mean that the disease is being wiped out. He said that it is too early to know how the number of trees will vary from year to year and how abnormal weather and seasons will affect the disease.

Oak Wilt control officials hold little hope that the control program can be discontinued in the future. At this time they say there is no reason to believe that Oak Wilt would not do serious damage to the state's oak timber resources which annually returns 20 million dollars to the economy, should continual effort be reduced.

Control crews have properly treated all diseased trees which were found to date. Proper treatment consists of cutting a deep girdle around the tree and removing the bark from the girdle to ground level. This treatment allows the tree to dry out before it has a chance to spread infection to healthy timber.

Wool Producers Must File For Incentive Pay

BEDFORD, Pa. — Wool producers who have not as yet turned in their receipts for shorn wool, lambs and yearlings should do so before April 30, 1958. The deadline date for selling is March 31, 1958.

It should be remembered that the incentive payment is over and above what the producer receives for the sale of his product. The incentive payment money is not taxpayers money but money collected as duty from wool imports.

Producers who market wool during the 1957 marketing year will be eligible for a payment which will be an amount equal to the percentage rate times the proceeds from the sale of the wool.

Parents Honor Teacher For Service

Mrs. William Vogtman, president of the Frostburg Hill Street PTA is shown here as she presents a life membership certificate to the school principal, Mr. John Manley, in recognition to his long and dedicated service as a public school teacher in Allegany County.

Hill Street School Principal Presented PTA Life Membership

FROSTBURG — John F. Manley, principal of Hill Street School, Frostburg, was tendered a surprise during the meeting of the Parent Teacher Association a recent evening by the presentation of "This Is Your Life," a tape recording of the program, and a Life Membership in the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. Raymond McFarland, traced the life of Mr. Manley by accounting the highlights of the event that brought back memories of the years spent as a principal in schools of Allegany County.

Former students from many of the schools were present and helped recall many experiences. It was noted that Mr. Manley was born in Midland and attended St. Joseph's School. Graduating from St. Joseph's he attended Beall High in Frostburg, graduating in the class of 1920. Mr. Manley worked for one year and then entered Frostburg Normal School, confronted with the problem of no male classmates. However, determining to go on, he contacted James Campbell, Frostburg, and they were the only two boys in the entire school until their ranks were strengthened by the entrance of Harold Miller, Grantsville. Ever since that time boys have continued at the Normal School at Frostburg as it was formerly known and State Teacher's College as it is known today.

Upon graduation, 1923, he received appointment to the Wentling School, Christy Road, Cumberland, and here taught his first year. The next two years were spent at Hammond Street, Westernport.

Being anxious to secure a principalship, Mr. Manley received appointment to Iron's Mountain School. He remained there until 1928, when he was transferred to Miller Mines School near Midland. After three years at Miller Mines, he was transferred to Carlos School. In 1933, he was made principal of Corriganville School. He remained there until 1940, at which time he was appointed to the principalship at Hill Street School, in which capacity he has continued to the present time.

The life membership was presented by Mrs. William Vogtman, president of Hill Street PTA.

Mr. Manley expressed his appreciation to the group for their kindness and their gifts.

Mr. Manley has been active through the years in establishing many youth clubs and organizations. He is a charter member of the Teacher's Credit Union, in which he has served as director and president. He has been chairman of the Frostburg State Teacher's College Alumni Loan Fund for the past 20 years. He is also president of the Allegany County chapter of International Council for Exceptional Children.

A party completed the evening.

Marshall Downs St. Francis, 100-96

HUNTINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — Marshall capped a frantic last minute rally tonight to hand St. Francis, Pa., its second defeat in 15 starts, 100-96.

Leo Byrd scored 34 points to pace the Big Green while Hal Greer added 23. Wilbur Trosch, sharp-shooting St. Francis sophomore, led all scorers with 41 points.

Byrd hit for Marshall with 1:22 remaining to give the Green a 93-92 lead, its first since early in the second half. Lemuel Nixon countered with a bucket to put St. Francis back in front, but Greer drove between two Frankies to give Marshall the lead for good.

Murphy's Bid For Control Of Senators Is Turned Down

$1,375,770 Offered For Added Shares

Griffith States His Family Not Interested In Ball Club's Sale

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—Minority stockholder H. Gabriel Murphy made a spectacular—but unsuccessful—pitch today for control of the Washington Senators. He offered $605 apiece for enough shares to put him in command and was turned down.

Murphy's bid for 2,274 shares in the estate of the late Mrs. Clark Griffith amounted to $1,375,770.

Calvin Griffith, president of the American League team, tersely rejected the proposition. He said his family, which holds 52 per cent of outstanding stock, "is not interested in selling the Washington ball club, either in part or its entirety."

Feuds With Griffith

Murphy, who has feuded with Griffith for many months, set an unheard of price in baseball stock. In so doing he raised new questions about the taxable value of shares in Mrs. Griffith's estate. The bid quotation for Senators' stock has recently been $150 in over-the-counter listings.

If Murphy's bid were the only factor in appraising the shares, estate taxes could run over $250,000.

However, other factors related to earnings and past stock transfers no doubt also would be considered in determining the tax.

C. Leo De Orsey, a club director and Griffith family lawyer, said, "I contemplate no tax problem."

Griffith, adopted son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clark Griffith, is executor of the estate. Mrs. Griffith willed a lifetime right to the stock profits to her sister, Mrs. Jeanne Robertson. When Mrs. Robertson dies, the stock will be divided between Calvin Griffith and his sister, wife of club Vice President Joe Haynes.

As executor, Griffith is bound to protect the beneficiaries' interests.

Holds Largest Block

Murphy, a Washington insurance man, holds the largest single block of Senators' stock, about 40 per cent. He paid $80 a share several years ago. Although the Griffiths' stock is placed together in a family trust, Murphy said he understood it could be sold if all parties agreed.

Murphy said today he sought control of the team "in order to produce a winner and to end their constant threat of moving the franchise to some other city." The Senators finished last in 1957, both in the standings and home attendance.

OFFER REJECTED — H. Gabriel Murphy, Washington insurance man, talks on the telephone in his office after offering more than a million dollars in an effort to gain control of the American League Washington Senators. His bid was quickly rejected by club president Calvin Griffith. Murphy sought to purchase 2,274 shares of stock in the estate of the late Mrs. Clark Griffith, widow of the Senators' longtime owner. Murphy already owns approximately 40 per cent of the club's stock. (AP Photofax)

Leahy Is Interested In Academy Post

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Jan. 29 (AP)—Frank Leahy, former Notre Dame football coach, said today he has not been contacted concerning the Air Force Academy coaching job but that he would be interested in "an advisory coaching position" at the academy.

Reports list Leahy as a possible candidate to replace Buck Shaw, the academy's first coach, who yesterday was released "by mutual consent."

It was just a month ago, Leahy agreed to coach at Texas A&M, but then rejected the offer on his doctor's orders. Leahy, 49, resigned as Notre Dame coach after the 1953 season because of a stomach ailment.

Hoad Unbeaten In Tennis Play

MELBOURNE, Jan. 29 (AP)—Lew Hoad remained the only unbeaten player in the $50,000 Australian round robin professional tennis tournament today by defeating Pancho Gonzales 7-5, 5-7, 6-4.

Tomorrow night Hoad plays Frank Sedgman, another Australian, who today had a tough time defeating Tony Trabert 6-3, 7-9, 6-4. Sedgman already has been defeated once in the tourney and a Hoad victory would rap it up for the former amateur champion.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(INS)—Let's see if we can shed a little light on the muddled heavyweight title situation.

Cus D'Amato, pompous and stubborn manager of champion Floyd Patterson, says he and Harry Levene, British promoter, have "agreed in principle" to a London fight for Patterson.

If Patterson ever lays his title on the line it will have to be against an Englishman because—and note this—the British Board of Boxing Control will never permit two foreigners to fight each other.

This means that Patterson would not be permitted to fight another American over there nor would he be allowed to fight a national of any other country except England.

This would automatically rule out a return bout with Pete Rademacher, the amateur D'Amato has been talking about rematching with Patterson.

Joe Erskine, the British Empire champion, is slated to fight Ingemar Johansson in Sweden Feb. 21, and if Erskine wins he may get the title shot at Patterson but should Johansson win, he would not be allowed to fight the champion in England.

If Erskine does beat Johansson, Patterson does indeed have a good money shot in London which has not had a heavyweight title fight since Tommy Burns stiffened Gunnar Moir in 1907.

Such a fight would be held in Wembley Stadium which can hold 85,000 for a fight and has held 102,000 for a soccer match. At a $30 top the bout could easily draw $600,000.

There is, of course, no danger of Erskine beating Patterson. Even Nino Valdes, no tiger he, flattened Erskine in one round. Erskine is a jabber who packs no punch at all and can't take a punch very well.

But there is a grave danger from the referee. Here's why.

There are no judges, merely the referee, whose word is law and whose acts, no matter how wrong, are always backed up by the boxing board.

Fighters rarely lose a bout on a foul in England but they often are disqualified for holding. A British referee never gives more than one warning, and he never touches the fighters to get them to break.

He merely says "break" and if one of the fighters continues to hold the referee will (1) disqualify him immediately or (2) warn him at the end of the round and at a second offense, throw him out of the ring.

Ezzard Charles was disqualified in the second round of his last fight with a Britisher named Dick Richardson in London.

You can readily understand what could happen to Patterson. And since no foreigner is ever allowed to referee in England, D'Amato would not be permitted to import an American referee to protect Patterson.

Murry Dickson Plans Comeback With Athletics

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 29 (AP)—Murry Dickson, given his unconditional release last fall by the St. Louis Cardinals after 18 years as a major league pitcher, will try for a comeback this year with the Kansas City Athletics.

The A's announced they had signed the 41-year-old veteran on the recommendation of his old battery mate, catcher Walker Cooper, who helped Dickson work a sore arm back into shape last fall.

His salary was not specified.

Dickson's best season was in 1951 when he won 20 and lost 16 for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Last year he had a 5-3 record with the Cards.

NFL Pension Fund Feasible

Insurance Experts Meet Loop Leaders

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 29 (AP)—Insurance and pension consultants today told National Football League owners and the Pro Players Assn. that a players' pension fund is feasible.

Representatives of the association and an owners' committee huddled with the insurance and pension experts after Commissioner Bert Bell, in his report to the annual NFL meeting, informed the owners professional football never was in better shape.

Bell disclosed the paid attendance for 1957 amounted to 2,836,318—a gate record for the sixth consecutive year.

In addition to talking pension, the players group issued a statement backing Bell 100 per cent in the commissioner's refusal to lift the league home area television blackout for regular season, playoff or championship games.

Representing the association at the pension conference were Bill Howton of the Green Bay Packers, Kyle Rote of the New York Giants, Bill Pellington of the Baltimore Colts and Assn. Atty. Creighton Miller.

Howton, newly elected president of the player group, said all of the experts agree that a "feasible pension plan could be worked out for NFL players." He said the league was to make available to the pension people the data necessary for them to work out various pension plans for submission to the owners and the association.

Mickey Vernon Goes To Tribe On Waivers

BOSTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox today sold veteran first baseman Mickey Vernon to the Cleveland Indians on waivers.

Sox spokesmen said "it's strictly a waiver deal."

Vernon, who will be 40 April 22, has been with the Sox two seasons, coming here from Washington where he spent most of his major league career.

The first sacker played with the Indians a year and a half in 1949 and 1950.

Cleveland Indians Sign Four Scouts

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians today announced the signing of four more scouts, bringing to seven the number added to the baseball club's roster since the conclusion of the 1957 season.

The newest scouts are Phil (Lefty) Weinert, Eddie Goosetree, John (Poke) Whalen and Hal White.

Whalen, a scout for Pittsburgh and Baltimore for more than 20 years, lives in Baltimore and will cover Maryland, Delaware and Virginia.

Tom Fletcher of Purdue led the Boilermakers in scoring last season with 31 points. The halfback made 16 out of 19 placements, kicked a field goal and scored two touchdowns.

Giants Ink Sauer With Pay Raise

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29 (AP)—Hank Sauer, whom Chicago baseball writers voted comeback player of 1957, signed his contract with the San Francisco Giants yesterday.

"Comeback?" said the 38-year-old outfielder as he walked into Seals stadium. "I never thought I was through."

Sauer said he "got a raise," but didn't name his salary.

Playing left field or pinch hitting in only 127 games, the rangy righthanded slugger hit 26 homers and drove in 76 runs while posting a .259 batting average with the Giants last year.

Stan Musial Signs Pact With Cards For $100,000

Becomes Highest Paid NL Player

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29 (AP)—A beaming Stan (The Man) Musial signed the richest baseball contract in National League history today and commented, "I would have settled for less."

Under the pact, the St. Louis Cardinals will shell out about $100,000 for their 37-year-old left-handed slugger who bats out of his peculiar, trademarked crouch.

For the past six seasons Musial's salary was $80,000 yearly. The $20,000 boost was, Musial said, "the contract the Cardinals wanted me to have."

Only Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox will likely receive more money this season—an estimated $125,000 when he comes to terms.

"It's a wonderful contract," Musial told a press conference. This year, in particular, the Cardinals wanted me to have this contract. I would have settled for less.

Stan's $80,000 yearly salary was already the high money mark in the league, although former Pittsburgh Pirate player Ralph Kiner once was said to have made $90,000 with an attendance clause.

Musial, winner of his seventh National League batting crown last year with a .351 mark, predicted today he would have "one or two more seasons at top speed."

The veteran who captured the league's most valuable player award three times said:

"I won't want to set a limit on the number of games I'm going to play in 1958. I want to play all 154 if I can."

Musial, entering his 17th season with the Cards, reported he was in better physical shape now than in the last few seasons.

August A. Busch Jr., head of the Cardinals signed Musial personally—the only Cardinal given such VIP treatment.

Bay Fishing Fees Sought

Anglers Now Work Tidal Waters Free

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 29 (AP) — The Maryland Legislature may be asked next month to require that sports fishermen pay annual fees to fish in Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

Hook and line anglers now fish in tidal waters free of charge, but spokesmen for the Maryland Rockfish Protective Assn. have announced they will seek a law requiring everyone over 16 years of age to purchase a $1.50 annual license for salt water fishing.

The rockfish group proposes that the money raised be earmarked for research and management of finfish in the bay.

The association said the State Department of Research and Education and the Legislative Council have both stated that funds are needed for this purpose.

The rockfish (striped bass) association says it has the support of the League of Maryland Sportsmen and other clubs in this cause. Group spokesmen claim a survey of fishing club members shows most salt water anglers are willing to support such a plan until scientists find a way to increase fish production.

The $1.50 license fee was proposed for both Marylanders and non-residents. Fishing boat operators would be required to buy special licenses, but their passengers would be exempt.

The fee for fresh water licenses is $3 to state residents and $10 to non-residents.

Roy Campanella Shows Marked Improvement

Feeling Returns To Chest, Arms, Hands

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Jan. 29 (AP)—Roy Campanella, Dodger catcher seriously injured in an automobile accident Tuesday morning, showed marked improvement today as feeling returned to his hand, arms and upper part of his chest.

The 215-pound, 36-year-old catcher had been paralyzed from his chest down since his car hit a telephone pole and turned over on a winding road not far from his home.

A late afternoon report from the hospital said Campy's legs still remained paralyzed but that he had begun to show strength and movement in his hands and that "there was feeling present throughout his hands, arms and upper chest."

He was partaking of fluids through the mouth but was being fed intravenously.

An earlier bulletin from the hospital had said "Roy is considerably better. He has sensation in both arms and upper chest but the paralysis is unchanged and he still is on the critical list."

Lee Scott, Dodgers' road secretary, said he didn't expect another statement from the hospital until tomorrow morning.

The baseball star's wife, Ruthe, spent 2½ hours at his bedside today but Campy slept throughout her visit.

Two of the bones in Campanella's neck were broken when his car hit the telephone pole after skidding on a curve. Rescuers had to use crowbars to get him out of the car. Surgeons said had the injury been an inch higher it would have killed Campanella.

While doctors termed the overall picture encouraging, they said it may be months—or conceivably years—before Campanella will be completely normal again. They are hopeful the paralysis will eventually disappear.

In any event the negro catcher's active baseball career appeared at an end. He is 36, a relatively advanced age in sports, and even with a quick recovery would have little time left to regain his playing skill.

79 Tickets Sold On Winning Combo

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 29 (AP)—Moraine, a $104.10 outsider who won the second race, collaborated with $19.50 Well Seasoned in the first to form a $1,426.60 daily double today at Hialeah Park.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Mining Bill Passes House

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 29 (AP)—A voluminous bill to re-write completely and modernize West Virginia's antiquated coal mining laws was passed by the House today and sent to the Senate. The vote was 88-8.

The bill went through today with a complete absence of debate, in contrast with the prolonged wrangle when it was on amendment stage yesterday.

The bill is an outgrowth of 13 months of study and negotiation between the West Virginia Coal Assn. and the United Mine Workers.

Minority Leader Seibert (R-Ohio) won a fight to have a Road Commissioner Patrick C. Graney come before the entire House to discuss and answer questions about the road program. The appearance of Graney and other road officials was set for 2 p.m. tomorrow, at which time the House will sit as a committee of the whole.

The House also passed and sent to the Senate a bill to authorize the collection of student union building fees by West Virginia University and the state colleges and the collection of graduate center fees if provision is made for the subsequent.

B&O To Furlough 90 Men Here

The B&O Railroad's latest furlough affects 90 workers in Cumberland.

Announcement of the order for "a reduction in expenses" was made Tuesday afternoon by the B&O and notices of the furlough here were posted.

A total of 63 workmen in the Backshops in the South End will be furloughed as of Saturday. The Bolt and Forge Shops will furlough 27 workers.

In addition to the shop workers, a number of employes will also be affected by a temporary curtailment of the local yard expansion project.

The furlough notice was the third since last November 1 when about five per cent of the workers on the system were laid off and an additional seven per cent were furloughed January 1.

There were about 5,000 workers on the entire B&O system furloughed in the two previous curtailments of the work force. The number affected in the present furlough on the system is not known.

George Westinghouse invented the airbrake in 1869.

Anderson Gets Commission To Forestry Board

Fred H. Anderson, magistrate for juvenile causes, has received his appointment and commission as a member of the Advisory Board of the State Forestry Camps from Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin.

In a letter accompanying the state commission from Annapolis, Gov. McKeldin wrote Magistrate Anderson:

"I appreciate your acceptance of membership on the Advisory Board of the State Forestry Camps and because of the importance of the work of the board I believe that a commission should be issued which would be commensurate with your authority and the confidence placed in you. I am, therefore, issuing and enclosing herewith what I believe to be a suitable commission.

"I would like very much to attend the first meeting of the board, but since it must be held sometime during the month of February, and, as you know, the General Assembly will be in session then, I must forego the pleasure. You will be advised of the date and time of the meeting by Thomas J. S. Waxter, director of the State Department of Public Welfare. I have advised Mr. Waxter that I plan to attend one of the later meetings of the board.xxx"

Associate Judge Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County is chairman of the advisory board and Chief Judge George Henderson of the Fourth Judicial Circuit also is a member.

Juvenile Court Hearings Slated

A 23-year-old local man will receive a hearing in Juvenile Court today in connection with a morals case involving several minor boys, the state's attorney's office said yesterday.

Paul Howard Shanski, 521 Furnace Street, will be charged with contributing to the delinquency of the boys who range in age from 8 to 14, according to County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya.

The boys will also receive a preliminary hearing, Magistrate Fred H. Anderson said.

Also slated in Juvenile Court are hearings for Richard William Rank, 20, of 204 North Centre Street, and Robert Joseph Hager, 18, of 320 Cecelia Street, on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old boy in the breaking and entering of the Powers Service Station on January 25.

James Eugene Porter and Ronald Jesus Porter, Corriganville brothers, will face a Juvenile Court hearing, Mr. Lilya said, in contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Corriganville boy in another breaking and entering case.

Mr. Lilya said the trio broke into the home of Elmer Porter, an uncle of the two Porter youths, near Barrelville on January 14 and stole a quantity of groceries and canned goods, a shirt, a pair of shoes and an automobile battery. The goods had a value of about $37, he added.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of spades.

Everything seemed to go wrong for South, declarer in today's hand. Perhaps he was burdened with too many assets for his great wealth brought on complacency which led to his downfall.

North opened the bidding with one heart and South properly responded with two no trump. It will be observed that with hands of this type nothing is to be gained by approach bidding. North with a balanced hand, went on to three no trump.

West led the jack of spades, and dummy's queen held the trick. Declarer had a great many potential winners and first tested the heart suit by playing to the queen and back to the king. When West showed out on the third lead of the suit, hearts had to be abandoned, for if East got in, a spade lead thru South's king might be disastrous.

He therefore tried to run the clubs, for if that suit broke 3-3, he could bring home nine tricks. He played first to the ace and then back to the king and queen, whereupon it developed that that suit would not run.

Declarer still retained one more chance, if West had one of the diamond honors. He intended to play a diamond toward his own hand and pass the ten into West, at which point West would have to return a diamond or a spade, either one of which would present declarer with his ninth trick.

But when the diamond was led from dummy, East played the queen. Declarer took with the ace and with a dying gasp returned the jack in the forlorn hope that West had the king, but East won the trick and settled declarer's hash by returning a spade.

Declarer could have assured the contract regardless of the adverse distribution. Since he needed only four heart tricks, he could have accomplished his end at trick two by leading the four of hearts from dummy and playing the nine from his own hand. If the nine should lose to the jack, West is welcome to the trick, for declarer has nine to his own credit. If the nine wins, declarer is home.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

Caesar's Return

The reuniting of Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca, an event comparable to the reunion of Evangeline and her lover of maybe even of Li'l Abner and Daisy Mae, was consummated on ABC-TV the other night and there was hardly a dry eye in the house. As a mater of fact, there's hardly been a dry eye in the house during the whole messy affair.

The breakup in 1953 was announced with choked sobs. The subsequent re-marriage brought forth another freshet of tears. And the actual ceremony was a sentimental holiday that must have dampened many an eye. That's television for you. There fabulous personalities burst out of nowhere in a shower of sparks. Then in a very short order the public tires of them. They disappear altogether. Then suddenly they are welcomed home like Ulysses.

And all this in so short a time. Sid Caesar is only thirty-five years old for heaven's sake. Yet he's being treated like an elder statesmen. It must be disconcerting.

And, having said all that, I'm as happy as everyone else to see Caesar and Coca back again. They are both enormously talented and, together, they set off each other's talents in so many ways—in timing, in inspiration, in sheer exuberance and similarity of viewpoint. I'm not going to pretend that the first show—which also brought back Caesar's old sidekick, Carl Reiner—was an unmixed triumph because it wasn't.

But it was plenty good enough for me and it gave an inkling of what Caesar plans to do with his time on ABC-TV. It started with a longish sketch about Caesar and Coca being tossed together by a match-making couple and—in the parlance of today's teenagers—making out. This is the sort of thing I like best about Caesar's sketch. It has an idea embedded in it that is recognizably human and reasonably fresh. That particular situation, almost everyone has been in or pushed someone else into—or both.

It's a valid comedy situation, all right, and it had some solid laughs in it, although not as many as Caesar and Coca have accustomed us to. Above all, it had that sure-footed togetherness (a word I picked up somewhere) about it. Coca and Caesar are on each other's wave length and, even without looking, they cue each other beautifully. Like a lot of Caesar's sketches this went on too long, and passed the same corner more than once, but it was a lot of fun.

The second sketch was about singers and their guests and a more timely topic for satire I can't think of. Caesar was discovered on a stool, with a cigaret in his puss, under a lamppost. "Hi, gang," he greeted us. "You know this whole show's live except me. I'm on film. And now a song from my latest album—'Songs To Make Money By.'"

The guest, of course, was Miss Coca who allowed as how: "It's wonderful to be here."

"I think it's very courageous of me to have you here," said Caesar.

Well, that's a pretty fair sample of the sort of badinage that transpire on song shows. In his absence from the television screen, which wasn't a very long one, Caesar sounds as if he had kept his ears open and his eyes, too. A good thing for the rest of us. We are desperate for this sort of wide-awake contemporary humor which has been supplied this year solely by Steve Allen.

Next year I expect we will be welcoming back Jackie Gleason as if he'd been off to another planet. Like Milton Berle who had a brief reincarnation on TV, Caesar has slimmed down almost to the point of gauntness. Not only have the comedians lost their shows; it looks as if they've stopped eating.

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Mr. Julian Laurent, who passed away 7 years ago today, January 30, 1951.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of one who once sat there
Beyond the sunset he has gone,
Still memories linger on.

Local Man Gets Suspended Term

John James Fadley, 32, city, yesterday was given a suspended sentence of a year in the House of Correction with the provision that he refrain absolutely from alcoholic drinks, get a job and be of good behavior.

Fadley, who had been serving a sentence in the county jail on a motor law violation, was a trusty at the lockup when he walked away from a work detail outside the jail.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in passing sentence cited Fadley's record involving drunk and disorderly charges, his failure to support his child, bad work record.

Judge Harris remarked that he could not understand why the sheriff's office had made Fadley a trusty in view of his record since 1947 of violations of the law. He said Fadley's walking away from the jail was as much the sheriff's office fault as Fadley's.

Fadley had been committed to the county jail last May and with the exception of the time he was absent following "breach of prison" has been a prisoner.

"Sugar" Is Claimed By Rightful Owners

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 29 (AP)—"Sugar" was claimed by her rightful owners yesterday, given up by a reluctant cab driver who adopted the mongrel pooch after a six-hour taxi ride last week.

Sugar was returned to 8-year-old Sandra Kay Ward of Charlestown, Ind. Her parents said the pooch had been stolen from their former Louisville home on New Year's Day.

The floppy-eared, mournful-eyed Sugar popped into the news when cabby Don Jaggers, 21, was paid $20 by an unidentified woman to drive the dog around Louisville for six hours.

Later, when he learned Sugar was found alone and unclaimed in an alley, he adopted her.

Jupiter-C Rocket May Be Renamed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The Army said today that the name of the modified Jupiter-C research rocket, to be used in the satellite launching program, may be changed. But as yet there is no agreement on a new designation.

One of the names considered is "Juno," the consort of the mythological Jupiter.

Technically, the name Jupiter-C has been misleading because the research rocket — even before changes for the satellite launching—bore little resemblance to the Jupiter intermediate-range ballistic missile.

Intriguing Name

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP)—The House group checking up on government regulatory agencies has an intriguing name: The Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight.

Aides explained it doesn't mean the legislators overlooked something. Rather, it means the group is in the position of an overseer—looking over the work of the agencies Congress created.

Bids On Bridge Near Oakland Are Opened

Uniontown Firm Has Low Figure

OAKLAND — The apparent low bidder on a 224-foot bridge across the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks and the Little Youghiogheny River on Route 219 at Weber, two miles south of Oakland, was David Goldberg and Son, Uniontown, when sealed proposals were opened Tuesday by the State Roads Commission in Baltimore.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said the project is the first phase of the modernization of Route 219 from Oakland to Gortner and Route 560 from Oakland to Mountain Lake Park.

The low bid submitted by the Uniontown firm was $157,309. The other five bidders were: W. H. Koppelman, Inc., White Marsh, $168,553; George F. Hazelwood Company, Cumberland, $169,926; Keeley Construction Company, Clarksburg, $183,667; Case Construction Company, Mt. Airy, $209,890, and George Construction Company, Cumberland, $214,352.

Chaires said the new bridge will be 224 feet long, with four spans measuring 49 feet, 66 feet, 66 feet, and 43 feet each. The roadway will be 30 feet high.

The structure will be erected 250 feet west of the present crossing which is controlled by a traffic signal. The river at that point becomes wild at times, and traffic has been blocked for periods because of flooding of the road.

Chaires said bids on the road modernization project will be opened Tuesday, February 11, by the SRC.

That will cover 5.8 miles. This job will start in Mountain Lake Park on Route 560 and go into Oakland on Oak Street and Fifth Street, and then the work will go south to Gortner on Route 219.

Plans were outlined for the centennial building program to continue over the next three years as well as for the 100th anniversary celebration the end of 1958.

Mrs. George R. McIntyre, Mrs. Fred Metz, Mrs. William Abbott and Miss Rose Loar served the birthday cake, ice cream and refreshments at his birthday celebration.

Flintstone Teen Club Seeks Aid

The recently-organized Teen-Age Club at Flintstone was given a helping hand the other day at Police Headquarters when an interested party from that community came to Cumberland in quest of recreation equipment.

Mrs. Genevieve Schaffer explained the situation to Officer Henry "Ditty" Stitcher, who in turn gave her a few pointers on the organization of such a club and also told her where she could obtain some equipment.

She said the club has been meeting on Thursday evenings at the fire hall in Flintstone. Norman Shriver and Mrs. Peggy Kolb are co-counselors of the group of school students of the Flintstone area.

Mrs. Schaffer said the club is in need of such items as checker boards, ping pong equipment, phonograph records and games. This summer the organization hopes to sponsor a softball team and will seek competing teams.

Anyone who has recreation equipment and would like to dispose of it may call Mrs. Schaffer at GR 8-4101 and she will make arrangements to pick it up.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Recent comment by a European prompts J.R.P. to urge improvement of the typical walk of American women.

Listen While You Walk

A recent visitor from Europe was widely quoted in the press about his views on American women. I'm afraid his complimentary remarks impressed me less than the one which was startlingly uncomplimentary. He spoke of their "thunderous walk."

Looks as if we should get down to cases oftener on the subject of walking gracefully. Thunderous footsteps are a dead give-away of walk that's far from graceful. Only soft sounds go with beauty.

You may not be able to see your walking faults, but you can hear them. Listen while you walk. A clomping sound indicates that worst-of-all fault — knees locked stiff when they should flex. Legs must swing freely and rhythmically from the hip joints, but with little or no movement of the hips.

Let's review directions for the glide-walk that makes walking-movement perfection:

Stand in your best posture, tilting the pelvis upward and pulling tall but with the knees relaxed. Lift the right leg slightly off the floor with a ball-bearing action in the thigh joint, and move the foot forward with toes pointing ahead. Make certain that the knee is flexed and that the major movement flows from the hips.

Now place the heel lightly on the floor, one foot-length pace ahead. As the heel touches the floor, roll your weight through the dead center of your foot until it rests on the ball of your foot, then grip the floor with your toes. Follow with the other foot in the same way and continue to move the feet on two parallel tracks about two inches apart, making sure that the transfer of weight from foot to foot is even and soundless.

TOMORROW: Be The Artist.

"DANCE THROUGH A WEEK TO BEAUTY"—Created EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column, dance steps anyone can do. They bring increased grace and reduced measurements. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c (in coin) for a copy of DANCE THROUGH A WEEK TO BEAUTY.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29 (INS)—If you read the Gerald Green book "The Last Angry Man," which tells of the futile life of a fine man in a hectic age, you'll know that Producer Fred Kohlmar had his work cut out when he started preparing it for the screen.

He has it pretty well licked now, and when the cameras start rolling May 1, Glenn Ford will have the role of Thrasher, the advertising man.

Harry Cohn has given Danny Mann the directorial job, and it has been decided to film the locations in Brooklyn where the story is laid.

Now that Charlton Heston is set for "Ben Hur," the other members of the cast are being rapidly rounded up. Maria Schell has been offered the top femme role and out MGM way they are waiting for her decision.

Director Willy Wyler paid the fair Maria a visit in Europe to ask her when she will be free.

I'd be inclined to think she'll accept the "Ben Hur" offer because her last picture, "The Brothers Karamazov," was a happy experience for her and MGM.

At the luncheon given to introduce 18-year-old Millie Perkins, who will play Anne Frank in "The Diary of Annie Frank" for 20th, the original diary of the little Jewish girl who met death at the hands of the Nazis was on display.

Millie, a former model for teenage magazines, won the role out of 10,224 applicants. She looks exactly as you might imagine Anne, who wrote the original diary. She is five feet two, has large hazel eyes and straight black hair.

A story written by Anne in which she imagined herself in Hollywood as a guest of Priscilla Lane, and how she met all the big stars including Madge Bellamy, was read by George Stevens, Jr. George Stevens, Sr., obtained this from Otto Frank, who is still alive in Amsterdam.

Ernest Hemingway knows what the fans think of "Old Man and the Sea" before most of us do. Leland Hayward sent him the cards received from the first sneak preview.

"Papa" told Al Horwitz, who is in Cuba, that he had never seen "A Farewell to Arms" as was reported, and had never discussed it. He did read, however, the reviews sent him from New York.

Al and Claire are vacationing for two weeks in Havana, and Hemingway also told them that he has just finished a short story and is editing a new novel.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Pola Negri is at the Eden Roc in Miami writing her memoirs. Boy, has she a story to tell!

Rock Hudson gets the Photoplay magazine award this year so he's postponing his trip until after Feb. 9.

Raymond Massey will be a grandpop for the second time when his eldest son, Geoffrey, and Mrs. Geoffrey greet the stork again in March.

The death of Jim Simolella, Hollywood's first important hairdresser, brought back memories. Jean Harlow, Mary Pickford, Claudette Colbert and many, many other of us were his patrons.

"Hollywood has moved to Havana," Frances Bergen writes. She says the place is jumping, with Alfred Hitchcock, the Oscar Hammersteins, Ann and Henry Ford, young Sen. Kennedy and his pretty wife. "And," adds Frances, "even Billy Graham is here."- She and Edgar are off to Haiti for a holiday.

Danny (Danny's Hideaway) Stradella arrives to discuss plans for a coast hideaway. His New York cafe has been in existence 13 years.

Thursday Carol Channing opens in her native San Francisco at the Fairmont Hotel, and on her birthday.

Alan Carney, who played three seasons in "Fanny," will be starred in the Palm Springs Playhouse presentation of "The Loud Red Patrick."

Thats all today. See you tomorrow.

Harmony Slate Backed By Local Democrats

Tawes, D'Alesandro, Sybert, Goldstein Win Endorsement

Over 400 Allegany County Democrats, representing practically all elements of the party, have endorsed Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro of Baltimore City for the party's nomination for U.S. Senator, and Sen. Louis L. Goldstein, president of the Maryland State Senate, for state comptroller.

The 400 Democrats also reaffirmed their endorsement of J. Millard Tawes for the Democratic nomination for governor, and C. Ferdinand Sybert for nomination for attorney general.

Signers said the endorsement is one of the most unified ever given in the county, and includes practically every segment of the party.

Signers include five of the six members of the Allegany County Democratic State Central Committee, with the sixth being undecided at the time; four former chairmen of the committee, the Democratic members of the Board of Supervisors of Elections, all officers of the Young Democrat Club of Allegany County, four former Young Democrat presidents; all officers of the United Democratic Women's Club of Allegany County and four former presidents; the president of the Georges Creek Democratic Club, and a number of Democrat labor leaders, present and former office holders, and other active Democrats from all parts of the county.

Praise Unity Effort

The endorsement, reaffirming approval of Mr. Tawes and Mr. Sybert, commended Mayor D'Alesandro for withdrawing his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination to offer his support to Mr. Tawes in the interest of party harmony.

It also stated that Mayor D'Alesandro's five terms in the House of Representatives and his long experience in public affairs "particularly qualify him for the position of United States Senator." The endorsement also included approval of Senate President Goldstein for the comptroller's nomination.

Said the endorsement:

"The above four gentlemen (Tawes, D'Alesandro, Sybert and Goldstein) all occupy highly responsible public offices to which they were elected by the Democratic Party, and their outstanding qualifications for the offices they now seek are unquestioned.

"They are running together in an effort to restore unity and to bring victory to our party this year. We are confident they can do so, and we respectfully urge our fellow Democrats to join us in supporting them."

The original endorsement is being sent to Mayor D'Alesandro and to Senator Goldstein.

A smoke scare yesterday afternoon sent ladder and engine companies from Central Fire Department to the Maryland Theater. Firemen said the smoke odor responsible for the alarm came from rubbish burned in the alley behind the theater.

'Department Of Peace' Hearing May Be Held

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) — A proposal for a Department of Peace, pursued by Rep. Staggers (D-WVa) for 10 years, may come up for a hearing this year.

Staggers said Chairman Dawson (D-Ill) of the House Government Operations Committee has indicated he will call hearings.

"I plan to confer again with Chairman Dawson soon to urge the scheduling of early hearings," Staggers said.

A bill to create such a department and give its secretary Cabinet rank has been offered at each session of Congress since Staggers first came to the House. But such a bill has never been approved by a committee for House consideration.

Staggers said he is more convinced than ever that a Department of Peace would "serve as a powerful and effective means of furthering the cause of world peace."

"I think it is a positive approach to the problem of world peace," he said. "It would be a more effective and powerful agency than the presidential disarmament adviser appointed by President Eisenhower." Harold E. Stassen is special assistant to the President for disarmament.

Staggers said he believes there is widespread backing of the idea from persons throughout the United States and that this support is growing.

Runaway Horse, Sleigh Damage Two Gas Buggies

Ol' Dobbin ran away with the sleigh yesterday afternoon near Somerset, Pa., and caused quite a bit of excitement for the townspeople — as well as about $300 damage to two horseless carriages.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mostaller of Somerset Township were out along the snow-covered roads on a pleasure ride when their horse suddenly bolted, throwing them to the ground.

The horse pulled the sleigh about half a mile to Somerset and entered the city, galloping along the main street.

During the ride with no master at the reins, the horse and sleigh sideswiped two cars, damaging them about $300. The horse was finally brought under control by William Barnhardt.

Mr. and Mrs. Mostoller were reported uninjured.

Quite a bit of snow is reported in the Somerset area, where many of the secondary roads are impassable, although ideal for a ride in a sleigh drawn by a tranquil horse.

MRS. WILLIAM J. GUNTER

Heart Sunday Leader Named

Mrs. Louisa Gunter, 739 Washington Street, widow of William J. Gunter, local attorney, has been appointed Heart Sunday chairman for the 1958 "Heart Fund Crusade," according to F. Allan Weatherholt, president of the Allegany-Garrett Heart Association.

The Heart Sunday drive, scheduled for the afternoon of February 23, is intended to have a volunteer heart worker contact every family to tell the story of the fight against heart disease and to solicit funds.

In Allegany and Garrett counties last year about 700 volunteers raised a total of $17,531. This year the number of volunteers is expected to exceed 1,000 in the two counties.

February has been designated as "Heart Month." In Maryland, the kick-off meeting of the statewide campaign was held yesterday at the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore. Mrs. Gunter and Mrs. Ora Mae Lewis, local Heart Association executive, represented the Allegany-Garrett Association.

Driver Pinned Under Auto After Crash

A 24-year-old Piedmont, W. Va., motorist was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser last night with injuries sustained when he was pinned under his car, which turned over on State Route 136 about three miles east of Westernport.

Harry Gordon of Hampshire Street is reported in "fair" condition at the hospital. Attaches said his injuries include abrasions of both legs.

Gordon, who was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist, told attaches he was thrown out the door when the car went out of control.

The victim was reported to have been pinned under the car in the accident, which occurred about 9:20 p. m. Maryland State Police are investigating.

Md. Furloughs Leveling Off

BALTIMORE, Jan. 29 (AP) — Although total payments to the unemployed last week inched up to a new record, an official said today that the layoffs in Maryland may have reached a plateau.

One of the principal encouraging aspects to Robert B. Kimble, executive director of Employment Security, was a drop in new claims for benefits for the third straight week. These reflect new spots of unemployment.

"We view the consistent drop in new unemployment over the last few weeks and the relatively minor increase in the number and amount of unemployment insurance payments last week as a definite slowdown in the economic downturn which became apparent the latter part of 1957," Kimble said.

"But we caution that this is a short term observation describing present conditions only. The figures are heartening, but they neither offer a substantial enough change nor do they cover a long enough period to permit a forecast."

The heartening aspects noted by Kimble were that the total number of checks issued last week was only 526 more than the week before. The total was 46,166. In the three previous weeks, the total had gone up 3,682, 7,162 and 5,683.

The total amount of $1,369,548, while still a record for Maryland, was only $17,389 higher than the week before.

In previous weeks, the total amount had risen $83,789, $214,806 and $176,939.

New claims dropped to 7,289 from 8,402 the previous week.

Man Paroled In Demolition Ball Theft

A local man received a suspended sentence here yesterday on a charge of petty larceny in a case involving the theft of an 1,100-pound demolition ball and a bulldozer track.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason found Charles Sponaugle, about 26, of 207 Maryland Avenue, guilty but suspended a 90-day jail sentence and paroled the man for six months.

The magistrate was told that Sponaugle and another man looking for junk early in July 1956 found the big demolition ball and bulldozer track belonging to the Hout Construction Company in the Shade's Lane section.

He said Sponaugle reported he asked an old man there if the ball and track belonged to anybody and was told the man did not know.

Magistrate Mason said the men then took the car they were using to the city scales to be weighed and then returned to the scene and devised a way to get the ball, which weighed over half a ton, and the 'dozer track into the car.

Then they took the vehicle back to the city scales again to determine the weight of the articles before driving to West Virginia, where they sold them to a junk dealer for $25.

When the contractor reported the loss to city police, Detective Thomas J. See toured area junkyards until he located the missing articles.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya, who prosecuted, said the junk dealer's records showed the ball had been purchased from Sponaugle. They were recovered and returned to the contractor.

Authorities said Sponaugle had left town by that time but was picked up this week when he returned.

The local man pleaded not guilty but was convicted, the magistrate said, because he was trespassing and did not know the owner of the property.

SRC Expedites Big Report On Road Program

Assembly Will Get Sufficiency Survey

BALTIMORE, Jan. 29 (AP)—The State Roads Commission is rushing to completion a mammoth report on its "sufficiency survey" of Maryland's 12-year road building program. It will be presented to the Legislature next week or the week after.

SRC Chairman Robert O. Bonnell said the report, a real "jawbreaker," is being put together by 10 secretaries working almost around the clock.

It will detail with five-color maps and charts on a statewide basis, as well as county-by-county:

1. What has been done in the first four years of the 12-year program (TYP), through Dec. 31, 1957, including projects completed, under construction, awarded, not started, advertised, and not awarded.

2. What roads remain to be built, as projected through 1968 and including those left over from the first four years.

3. Which roads originally considered for rebuilding can be maintained as they are with normal maintenance.

4. Projects which the commission recommends be added to the already outlined program.

In addition to a huge, many-paged 11-by-18 inch report embracing the entire state, the SRC will have 23 thinner individual books—one for each county.

Bonnell said it has been a "monumental task" compiling the information and preparing the books but the report "is aimed at keeping us ahead of our roads needs in the future."

The sufficiency survey report was put together after consultation with county commissioners and county delegations of the Legislature from each county.

Every mile of road completed or programed in the TYP is plotted both on maps and charts and its rating—how good a road it is—is listed.

The sufficiency survey report is one of three which Bonnell said are being prepared for the General Assembly.

A second will cover only the first four years of the TYP, including what projects remain to be accomplished in 1958 and what will then be left undone. It also will explain to what extent interstate highway funds will be utilized.

The third report deals with administrative changes which have been made in the commission, Bonnell said.

Bonnell said the SRC will again seek passage of a roadside control bill to prevent cluttering of the state's brand new highways with billboards and other "obstructions" to safe motoring.

He said the commission also will seek clarifying amendments to land acquisition legislation.

Labor Officials Discuss Candidates

Top officers of the Maryland, District of Columbia AFL-CIO held a get-together meeting with Western Maryland labor leaders here last night.

Top speakers were W. F. Strong, Washington, newly elected president of the state AFL-CIO, and Charles Della, Baltimore, secretary.

Mr. Strong was introduced by Joseph V. Burke, secretary of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, who arranged the meeting at the request of the AFL-CIO officials.

The dinner event held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel served to introduce Mr. Strong to some 20 AFL-CIO leaders here and to provide state officials with a general idea of area attitudes toward candidates in the coming primary election.

Similar meetings are being held in other sections of the state in preparation for the political program of the state AFL-CIO.

Grand Juries Will Hear Pa. Murder Cases

Two murder cases will be brought before the grand juries of Bedford and Somerset counties in nearby Pennsylvania when they convene on Monday morning.

William Showalter, 40, of Clearville, Pa., north of Flintstone, has been lodged in the Bedford County jail since the November 14 fatal stabbing of his wife, Mrs. Hilda Showalter, 35.

In the other murder case, Melvin Leroy Boden, 36, of Rockwood, Pa. and his brother, Harry Boden, 48, have been lodged in the Somerset County jail since the death of Mrs. Mary (Growall) Boden (wife of Melvin Boden) on November 17 at their home.

Both of the men were charged with murder and arson, authorities said. Mrs. Boden died in Somerset Community Hospital of third degree burns and shock about two hours after a fire was discovered in a sleeping room on the first floor of the Boden home in Rockwood.

An investigation by authorities revealed evidence which included two insurance policies taken out on Mrs. Boden shortly after her marriage in August.

A post-mortem revealed that the victim also sustained contusions and lacerations of the right eye.

Judge Thomas F. Lansberry will deliver the charge Monday to the grand jury in Somerset County. Criminal trials will begin on February 21.

The charge to the Bedford County grand jury will be delivered by Judge Richard C. Snyder.

Showalter was admitted to Bedford County Memorial Hospital when he presumably attempted to take his life after stabbing his wife and setting fire to their home on November 14. The residence was destroyed by fire.

There were no witnesses to Showalter's stabbing or the setting of the home fire. The incident stemmed from a family argument, police said.
